President Near End of Journey Through West Rests at Ranch Home of Federal Park Superintendent

WHISKEYTOWN, Calif. (AP)—President Kennedy has spent the final night of his 10,000-mile "con-servation tour" in the wilderness.

Kennedy fed bread to one of many deer flourishing near Lassen Peak volcano, which last erupted in 1917—the year Kennedy was born.

The President did not spend the night in a log cabin, as one White House official had promised. His overnight home was a comfortable ranch house with redwood sides, normally occupied by the park superintendent.

The traveling White House made public in advance some of the things Kennedy planned to say at Whiskeytown.

Kennedy saluted the Trinity River reservoir as a monument and an inspiration to all who cherish water.

He said he believes Genovese also engineered the assassination of missing mobster Anthony (Tony Bender) Strollo.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, senior Republican on the subcommittee, told reporters the testimony should serve as a warning to wardens.

Genovese has been moved from Atlanta to the federal prison at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., for "security reasons," the Justice Department said.

Genovese is held in such awe and fear, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has testified, that no move has been made by the New York organization to replace the "Hickory, Dickory, Dock, the mouse ran up the clock"—but wait, what have we here? It's Post-Crescent Photographer Robert Baeten hanging on for dear life to the hands of the clock on Appleton's St. Joseph Catholic Church steeple.

Baeten thought he might impress Fox Valley area residents or at least remind them to turn their clocks back tonight when daylight saving time ends in Wisconsin. Actually, Ed Deschler Jr., another Post-Crescent photographer, made a picture of the clock, posed Baeten in the studio and superimposed Baeten's picture on the hand of the clock.

Tonight's the Night You 'Get Time'

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The military junta is expected to send deposed President Juan Bosch into European exile today.

Other high government sources said Bosch was being put aboard the Navy frigate Mella, probably destined for Spain. They said the frigate would sail as soon as seas calmed in the wake of Hurricane Edith.

The three-man civilian provisional government installed by the junta announced the appointment of Dr. Jose Antonio Bonilla Atlas, foreign minister of the interim government after the fall of the Trujillo regime, as ambassador designate to the United States.

Reynolds Says He Puts Party Above Himself

MADISON (AP) — Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds, declaring he has no illusions about his popularity at the moment, said Friday he might not seek re-election if his candidacy would reduce President Kennedy's chances of carrying Wisconsin next year.

Commenting at a press conference, Reynolds also discussed his ownership of land in Door County, saying a newspaper he did not name, investigated his holdings and he wanted to spell out his interest in property the state is interested in buying.

The governor, serving his first two-year term, said that if polls next year indicate he would be a liability to the Democratic ticket, he might not run.

Reynolds said his father and two other men bought 440 acres in 1928 and later sold 10 acres to the county for a park. He said the Reynolds family still owns its share of the remainder and he has a one-quarter of a third interest.

Try to Ease Tensions in Cold War

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Minister Lord Home sat down with the Soviet Union's Andrei A. Gromyko today to see if further East-West accords can follow the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

The Western ministers may see Gromyko again next week, depending on the outcome of the meeting. Western diplomats speculated that this first high-level Cold War meeting since the test ban signing in Moscow Aug. 5 would produce mild results.

Agreement to hold further talks and perhaps discussion of a proposal for an East-West exchange of observers to guard against surprise attack, seemed the most to be expected.

The Western allies have not agreed on any specific proposals. They like the idea of an observer exchange but are cool on the non-aggression pact. They will ask Gromyko to spell out his ideas to see to what extent they might be acceptable to the West.

Beyond this, Rusk and Gromyko may be able to further meetings next week to concur on U.S.-Soviet deals not requiring agreement among the allies. Possibilities here range from cooperation in space to new embassies in Washington and Moscow.

Rusk, Home and Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder of West Germany, in a 2½-hour session Friday virtually ruled out the prospects of a nonaggression pact.

Proxmire Says Dairy Imports Hurt Taxpayers

Notes Such a Setup Illegal, Pushing U. S. Sales Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — A large increase in dairy imports is bad news for the American taxpayer and is patently illegal, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Friday.

Imported dairy products, he said, are showing American products off the grocery shelves.

"In doing so they cut the production and sale of these products from the milk produced by American herds," Proxmire said.

"Under our price support laws this simply means that for every pound of foreign cheese that replaces American cheese, Uncle Sam, and the federal taxpayer, have to buy another pound of surplus American produced cheese."

"This is patently illegal because Section 22 of the present law was passed by the Congress and enacted into law to prevent exactly this kind of additional burden on the American taxpayer."

Failure to enforce the law means, in effect, that the American taxpayer is supporting the price of milk throughout the world, he said.

"The technique employed to avoid import quotas is to bring in products which do not come under tariff classifications and yet compete with domestic products," Proxmire said.

"For example, colby cheese is allowed entry outside the quota system because federal authorities have failed to classify it as cheddar, although it is considered cheddar in American stores."

"Another example involves butter oil, which is almost pure butter fat," Proxmire said. "Large quantities of xylene, a sugar, vanilla, and butter fat preparation with 72 per cent fat, have flowed into this country because this is just below the quota requirements."

Butter is defined for quota purposes as a product with 80 per cent or more butter fat.

51 Cars Found Defective in 197 Vehicles Checked

LITTLE CHUTE — Village police assisted the state highway patrol with a safety inspection of 197 vehicles and issued 5-day tickets to 51 motorists.

In a seat belt check, 58 cars were found to have seat belts and of these 46 were not being used. Defects noted included 18 license plate lights, 14 stop lights, 12 hand brakes, nine directional and nine head lights, five tail lights, four no windshield wipers, three for no horn and improper muffler, two for clearance lights and improper plates and one for no driver's license and defective windshield.

Rural Appleton Man Arrested in Town of Menasha

OSHKOSH — Ronald R. Cooper, 20, route 2, Appleton, Friday changed a previous plea of innocent to one of guilty of drunken driving and was fined $125 by Winnebago County Judge James Sitter.

Cooper was arrested last Saturday on County Trunk BB in the Town of Menasha after an accident. He tested 19 on the breathalyzer. A reading of 15 is considered evidence for drunken driving. His license was revoked for one year.

New Quartet Joins Barbershop Chorus

The surprise appearance of a new quartet highlighted a span-fest (roast pig) dinner at the Combined Locks Pavilion Sunday for the Appleton Valley - Ares Barbershop Chorus members and their wives.

Members of the new quartet are William Goetz, Carl Schumacher, Ron Hietpas and James Schabo. Ray Sunderland, president, and Carl Schumacher, vice president, were in charge of the program.

The chorus now meets at the Odd Fellows Hall at 8 p.m. every Monday. Men interested in singing in the chorus or in a quartet may attend.

Dr. Edward Sabel, center, temporarily deserted his post as president of the State University of New York College at Cobleskill, N. The college which he heads is one of more than 50 in the State University of New York chain. Dr. Thomas E. Hamilton, one-time dean at Lawrence, headed the entire system until going to the University of Hawaii earlier this year.

To Your Good Health

Avoid X-rays in Early Months of Pregnancy

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: You recently wrote that X-ray could endanger a baby in the first three or four months of pregnancy.

I was pregnant just a few days when I had several X-rays taken.

I am very much concerned. The doctor X-rayed my gall bladder and lower part of my stomach. — MRS. L. K.

I included a brief note about this not so long ago, but quite a few letters have since arrived, about like the foregoing one, and perhaps we'd better discuss this further.

First of all, maybe no harm came from the X-rays. Let's say probably there was no harm. For Mrs. L. K. and for all the X-rays were not of the pelvic area, but of the chest, stomach, gall bladder.

The question is not whether the pregnant mother-to-be had X-rays, but whether they reached the cell, the fertilized ovum, which is the beginning of the baby. Assuming that the ovum was not penetrated by the rays, then we can stop worrying.

Let's suppose, however, that X-rays were taken of the lower intestinal tract or some area including the lower abdomen. In that case, they may have caused a mutation, some change in the developing life.

These mutations can occur in humans and in plants. Sometimes the change is for the better, more often it is harmful. Sometimes the change, while indicating a difference, may be unimportant.

After the A bombs of Nagasaki and Hiroshima, there was speculation that unborn children would be all sorts of monsters. This did not, however, prove to be the case. There were some mutations, but not as numerous, and by no means as serious, as had been predicted.

Therefore I say to women who, unknowingly, have had X-rays early in pregnancy, don't get too upset over an exposure of perhaps one tenth of a second, which is tiny, compared to the total body radiation caused by the A bombs in Japan.

It's a matter of fractions, percentages, and chance. Let's 'play the percentages.' It is safer to avoid X-ray exposure in the early months of pregnancy. If, in the few days before having an X-ray, a woman believes she may be pregnant, she should tell her doctor. He may, depending on circumstances, decide that the X-rays should still be made, but he will take extra care to be sure that the lower abdomen will not be exposed.

This is a problem which deserves intelligent handling. It is not — not — one which warrants the worry expressed in the letters that have reached me of late.

Effects of Garlic
Dear Dr. Molner: My wife and I have been using powdered garlic for flavoring foods. I have even used it right out of the shaker in small amounts without the food.

Does such garlic aggravate high blood pressure? — A. A.

No. It is a condiment, a seasoning or flavoring, and not a medicine. It neither aggravates high blood pressure, nor, as some used to think, relieve it.

Wants Bigger Bust
Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any medication a young woman can take to increase her bust line? Exercise is not helping. — MRS. J. W.

Good posture will do more than anything. Adding some weight also helps. But it's mostly a matter of heredity, and you can't do anything about that. Maybe your grandmother, 40 years ago, was envied because she was so flat that she looked like one of the drawings by John Held, Jr. Fashion change faster than the immutable laws of nature.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Reynolds Seeks Court Decision On Appointments

MADISON (AP)—The continuing feud between Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds and Republican Atty. Gen. George Thompson came to a head Friday over the issue of appointments.

"I'm constantly harassed by the attorney general's office," said Reynolds as he revealed plans to make up to 100 appointments to force a Supreme Court decision on the scope of a governor's authority.

The governor was irked by Thompson's handling of the appointment of Patrick J. Lucey to the State Investment Board.

The board switched its decision Friday in Milwaukee and decided to seat Lucey, the past state Democratic chairman.

The investment board refused two weeks ago to seat Lucey because his initial appointment had not been confirmed by the State Senate. Reynolds then renamed Lucey and the attorney general took the position that since the second action occurred while the Legislature was not in session it should be considered valid.

On this date in 1942, Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo first sighted the California mainland. In 1913 the Cabrillo national monument was established at Ballast Point, San Diego.

In 1850, flogging in the U.S. Navy and aboard commercial vessels was abolished.

In 1894, Ashland Forest Reservation in Oregon was established by presidential proclamation.

In 1936, the Rocky Mountains and the Denver area recorded 17 inches of snow which resulted in 16 deaths.

In 1941, the Nazis declared a civil emergency in the greater part of Bohemia during World War II.

Man Admits Writing $15,000 in Bad Checks

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — When Roland Bush, 26, was arrested in St. Louis Monday he had 14 checks in his pocket.

But said the FBI Bush admitted he wrote $15,000 worth of bad checks across the country in a journey that started in Pittsburgh June 2, took him to California and back to Missouri. The FBI said he lived in the best hotels and rented three cars en route.

The arrest was on a vagrancy charge.

Surplus Food Users Increase in September

Distributor Fixes Delivery Schedule
For Winnebago and Waupaca Counties

NEW LONDON — The number of persons receiving surplus food commodities increased during the month of September in the seven-county area served by United Counties Distributors.

Theodore Thomas, operator of United Counties Distributors said, during summer months many of the people who were certified to receive commodities did not get them. For people of the counties served by United Counties who are not receiving surplus commodities and may be eligible, information on how to become certified will be distributed at delivery points during October. Thomas said. Information on eligibility to receive commodities also is available at the welfare offices of the various counties, he added.

Neenah Men Get Insurance Group Posts

NEENAH — Seven officers or department heads of the Equitable Reserve Association (ERA) attended the 77th annual meeting of the National Fraternal Congress of America this week at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago. Two of those attending were elected to commissions of the congress. One retained a previous committee appointment.

Lorren Schroeder, secretary of the ERA and president of the Wisconsin State Fraternal Congress section.

Editor and publicity director of the ERA, Francis W. Olsen, was elected a member of the executive committee of the press and public relations section.

Douglas M. Botsford, ERA superintendent of agencies, retained his position on the executive committee of the fraternal field managers section.

Other ERA members attending the congress were M. J. Emerson, president; John S. Tolversen, president and director of fraternal activities, and R. D. Molzow, vice president and general attorney.

About 700 invitations have been extended.

Xavier Mixed Chorus First Concert Soon

The Xavier High School mixed chorus is preparing for its first concert, which will be presented with the school band on Oct. 26.

Directed by Austin Boncher, the chorus has 64 members. It meets three times each week from 7:30 to 8:40 a. m. Members receive full credit for participating in this activity. Practices are held on the auditorium stage. Barbara VanRooy is accompanist.

A Lawrence Tradition

Students Exhume 4-Ton Rock From River Bottom

Folksingers are missing a good bet by not immortalizing Lawrence College's much traveled Rock which this week has returned from the muddy Fox River to a proud (but insecure) spot on the campus.

The "Rock" was moved to its present resting place behind Plantz Hall Thursday evening by a group of 50 eager frosh who swiped the 7,900 pound hunk of tradition from Brokaw Hall.

Brokaw Hall freshmen this week exhumed the "Rock" from its Fox River burial spot where it (and it was hoped a lot of campus headaches) were buried last spring.

How long the "Rock" will remain at its new resting spot is anybody's guess, but the odds are good that plans are presently being hatched in the Brokaw building for retaliatory action.

Unsolved Mystery

Plantz Hall's invaders entered the Brokaw area Thursday evening and snatched the "Rock" from the lawn. How the heavy rock was moved is yet a mystery, but at least one Appleton tow truck operator said he was contacted by the students and asked if he would hire out for the "rock-napping."

The operator turned down the job because he said the stunt was getting out of hand. For the past 40 years, he said, he has had his share of campus high jinks involving one Rock.

After the Rock was moved, the Brokaw crowd gathered forces for a move on Plantz Hall where they hoped to recover their treasure. Plantz Hall, however, discouraged the Brokaw move with a dampening shower of water tossed from overflowing wastepaper baskets.

The battle lasted less than several seconds, but the area around the "Rock" became muddied in the melee and the site has now become sacred ground.

No Rules Broken

Students are careful to point out after the battle 'as they attempted to clean mud from the building, the sidewalks, the dormitory hallways and porches) that no college rules were broken in the battle. Water was not tossed from the dormitory windows or roofs, as college rules forbid, but was tossed face to face and toe to toe.

The Rock came to Lawrence College near the turn of the century by an innocent geology professor who found it in New London and thought it would be an interesting specimen to study. Years later the Rock was placed along the walkway up to Main Hall and it was from this site that various dormitories and fraternities began moving it. Over the years, various houses have painted signs, slogans and dormitory names on the stone.

Nuclear Warheads for Canadian Missiles

NORTH BAY, Ont. (AP)—Canada's 56 Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles will be fitted out with nuclear warheads within two months, says a Canadian air force official.

The dispute over whether Canada should accept U.S. warheads contributed earlier this year to the fall of the Conservative government of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and the election of his Liberal successor, Lester B. Pearson.

Air Vice Marshal James Harvey, commander of the northern region of the North American Air Defense Command, made the announcement Friday. He said nuclear warheads will be available in several months for the Canadian air force's 63 Voodoo jet interceptors.

At the present time, the ASCS is in the city hall, the SCS is in the post office, and the Extension Service is in the courthouse.

Joint Moon Shot Held Nonsense but Part Of Propaganda Game

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, a retired Army officer who commanded the Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala., says President Kennedy's proposal for a joint U.S.-Russia moon shot is "a bunch of nonsense but part of the propaganda game we play."

Medaris added that the president's proposal, put before the United Nations, was "poorly timed" and "entirely unrealistic."

He commented in an interview after speaking to graduates of the guided missile school at Huntsville.

Most Colleges Require Tests For Entrance

Exams Scheduled At UW Center and Appleton High

High School students intending to apply for college entrance after the second semester should be aware that most schools require an entrance examination, according to the Appleton High School guidance department.

Tests most often given are the American College Test and the College Entrance Examination, the department said.

The Wisconsin colleges require scores from the ACT. The University of Wisconsin this year will accept scores from either test. Most private schools require CEEB scores.

The CEEB consists of the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) which is given in the morning. There are two general parts to this, one giving a verbal score and the other a mathematical score. This section of the test is required by all schools which require the CEEB.

In addition to the SAT, some schools require applicants take one or more of the achievement tests given in the afternoon. Some of the areas covered in these achievement tests are intermediate math, English, composition, chemistry, physics, biology and advanced mathematics.

Various schools and colleges have different requirements and procedures for application. Interested students should check the application procedures as outlined in the college catalog. Most schools would like the scores from the December boards.

Exams Scheduled

The ACT will be given at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center on Nov. 9, Feb. 15, April 25 and June 20. The registration deadlines are Oct. 12, Jan. 25, April 4 and June 6.

The CEEB will be given at Appleton High School on Dec. 7, Jan. 4, March 7, May 2 and July 8. Registration deadlines are Nov. 9, Dec. 14, Feb. 8 and April 4. The June deadline has not been set.

High school deans or counselors can provide further information on the tests.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

The "lefty" may look awkward in a right-handed world, but actually the left-handed are no dumber than other people. Some of the world's outstanding geniuses have been, and are, left-handed. From personal experience, we know that the southpaw faces handicaps in many minor areas of life. But most of us adjust to what our inheritance and our early learning made us and do as well as we can. Handedness alone is no indication of the native intelligence of a person.

Does the scientist live in a world of facts?

Yes— No—

No, say some psychiatrists. Often he lives in a world of dreams. Despite all his research, he dreams of the time when he will make some great discovery that will make him famous and rich. As time goes on and this does not happen, he develops anxieties, way deep down in himself. In the meantime he may overwork himself, and miss out on many of the satisfactions of social and family living that should be his along the way.

There always is a reason why a person acts as he does.

True— False—

True. All behavior is purposeful. A person acts as he does because of some need that he is trying to meet. No matter how ridiculous, irrational, or "ornery" a person behaves, it makes sense in terms of what and who he is. Behavior is the result not only of reason and logic, but also of a person's feelings and emotions and attitudes. Getting to the bottom of unfortunate behavior to find its meanings to the person himself is an important step in treatment.

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words often misused: Do not say, "Wait until I am done reading." "Done" in the sense of "finished," is a colloquialism that should be avoided in formal speech or writing. It is better to say, "Wait until I have finished reading."

Often mispronounced: Preamble. Accent FIRST syllable, not the second.

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: Refractory, obstinate in disobedience, stubborn, unmanageable. "She is a refractory child."

Escapes From Sparta Jail Found in Iowa

SPARTA (AP) — One of two Monroe County Jail prisoners who escaped early Tuesday was taken into custody at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents. Thursday night, local authorities said.

Sheriff Arden Oss said that Glen E. Peterson, 40, was picked up as he sat in a tavern. He was jailed at Cedar Rapids on a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution and the Wisconsin jail break charge.

Still at large is Joseph Nelson, 47, no permanent address.

Chances for General Price Rise Are Dim

Most Hikes Have Been on Raw Material Only

BY SAM DAWSON
An AP News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Battle-scarred American consumers are used to creeping inflation—prices of one thing or another going up here and there from time to time. But talk of a new concerted spurt just ahead may well be premature.

Times aren't that booming, no matter what the stock market says. Retailers and manufacturers are still too competitive. Recent price rises, mostly of industrial materials or products, are considered too scattered and too tentative to change the present trend — which, alas, is that of still further creeping inflation.

But a general substantial price rise looks dim indeed to most economists, in and out of government, at this time.

Small Role
Most Americans are primarily interested in the prices on the finished products at the retail level. A few scattered price rises on raw materials play only a small role in setting these.

Much more important in recent years has been the increase in other costs of production and distribution. The government index of wholesale prices continues its largely sideways movement.

The rise of production and distribution costs above the wholesale and raw material levels has caused the creeping inflation both in finished goods and in services. This has caused, and still does, disarray in many family budgets.

Bargains Around
But offsetting it today, as in the last few years, has been the chance to shop around for bargains. Manufacturers have too much idle production capacity to raise prices sharply. Retailers have been too competitive for consumer dollars not to offer bargains for those who looked for them.

For most persons then, the word that Detroit seems likely to hold the price line on its new auto models counts much more than a rise in the price of steam condensers.

Prices, like stock prices, doubtless will fluctuate. Increases will be announced. Some prices will be shaved when competition pinches.

Until the economy booms a lot more than it now is expected to, and until excess industrial capacity is all put to work, inflation is likely to be held to its all but chronic state of creeping.

Instructor's Article in Magazine

Donald A. Lemke, instructor in education at Lawrence College, is the author of an article "A Total Program for Teacher Recruitment" appearing in the September issue of The Clearing House, a journal for junior and senior high schools. The magazine is published by the Fairleigh Dickinson University Press.

In the article, Lemke suggests a six-point program for attracting qualified students to the teaching profession.

His program includes recruitment of potential teachers on the high school level, establishment of state and local scholarship, a compulsory speech course in the freshman year of college to detect weaknesses in expression, a re-evaluation of a student's capabilities as a potential teacher in the sophomore year, the beginning of practice teaching in the second semester of the junior year, and actual work as substitute teacher for considerable periods of time during the senior year.

Lemke, who is a Lawrence alumnus, has received the master's degree and is now a candidate for a doctorate at the University of Colorado. In addition, he spent a year at the University of Copenhagen.

La Crosse Hunter Dies In Montana Hotel

MILES CITY, Mont. (AP) — Arnold Payne, 44, La Crosse, Wis., who was in Montana on a hunting excursion, was found dead in his room at a Miles City hotel Friday.

Coroner Kenneth Rudolph said Payne apparently suffered a heart attack. The coroner said Payne had a history of heart trouble, and medicine for a heart ailment was found in his room. Payne had come to Miles City with Nick Mullen, a co-worker at a Wisconsin brewery.

Naturalized Americans Should be Careful in Visiting Old Homes

State Department Says You Should Check To Make Sure Military Draft Not Waiting

BY RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP) — To naturalized Americans thinking of paying a visit to their old homelands, the State Department gives this urgent advice:

"Check up beforehand, lest you get caught in a draft."

A military draft, that is. The problem came up recently in the case of Samuel Cohen, 27, a Chicago Educator. He went to Israel this past summer to study briefly—but he may have to stay another 2½ years as a soldier.

Cohen was born in Israel but became a naturalized American after he came to this country 12 years ago. The trouble is, the Israelis consider him still a citizen of their country. They are holding him for military service.

U.S. diplomats are working to release him, with dubious prospects of success.

The case illustrates the tangled international situation with regard to citizenship. What nationality you are may depend on where you are.

The United States, for example, does not recognize dual citizenship. Once an alien takes the U.S. citizenship oath, he is considered an American—period.

But Israel holds that an Israeli remains an Israeli until he formally renounces citizenship and thus renunciation is accepted by the interior minister of Israel.

Similar Laws
Other countries have similar laws. But U.S. officials say the Israelis seem to be "sticker than most" in enforcing them.

In fact Cohen's case is relatively rare. The eagerness for tourists' dollars, being what it is, many countries are loath to make it difficult for Americans, whether native-born or naturalized.

But a U.S. official recalled the recent case of a naturalized American of Greek birth. He served a hitch in the U.S. Marines, then went back to Greece for a visit. There he found himself facing the prospect of another hitch.

"Proper representations got him out," the U.S. official said. "He was lucky."

Greece takes the view that her nationals naturalized in other countries after 1914 still are Greeks, unless the government of Greece gave them permission to change citizenship.

Countries behind the Iron Curtain present a special problem because "they are so unpredictable," the official said. However, he continued, about 15,000 Americans traveled to Czechoslovakia during the past year and, although many of them presumably were natives of that land, there have been no complaints that any are being held for military duty.

NATO Agreements
The United States has agreements with a number of countries, notably NATO nations, ironing out some citizenship problems. Several countries exempt men from conscription if they served in the U.S. armed forces in World War II.

To switch from British to American citizenship requires a double ceremony, a person must be naturalized here and also formally renounce his old citizenship before British authorities. Otherwise he's still a Briton, in her majesty's eyes.

However, he could go back to Britain without fear of the draft.

Nobody is being conscripted there just now.

In general, though, the State Department advises that naturalized citizens planning trips to their native lands should check with consulates to see what they may be getting into.

There's another warning. If a naturalized citizen stays three years in the country of his origin, he may risk losing American citizenship. However, he may safely stay abroad as long as eight years if he hops from country to country.

Castro Believed Favoring Peking In Red Dispute

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Newly arrived Cuban refugees said Friday there are widespread reports in Havana of a deep rift in Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government.

"Fidel's leaning toward the Chinese Communists rather than the Russians is believed to have created the differences," said Osvaldo Quiros, who left Havana by small boat with six companions. He echoed reports by some exile leaders that Chinese troops are arriving in Cuba.

"How many have arrived can not be determined," Quiros said. Quiros said hit-and-run raids by exiles cheer Cubans.

"They want such action increased until the movement to overthrow Fidelism arrives," he said.

Kennedy Relative Gives Benediction Following JFK's Speech in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—In a rich, Irish brogue, a distant relative of President Kennedy delivered the benediction following the President's speech in the Mormon Tabernacle Thursday night.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick Kennedy, 72, from St. Joseph's Parish in Ogden, Utah, said he was born just 25 miles from where most of the President's relatives live in Ireland.

"Actually, I'm a distant relative," said Msgr. Kennedy "but I'm not sure just how we're related."

Your Money's Worth

You'll Save Money on Ready-to-Serve Items

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Contrary to what I suspect 99 out of 100 of you think, it costs you markedly less in terms of dollars as well as time to serve convenience foods today than to home-prepare meals from scratch in your kitchen.

This defies all previous evidence. In 1957, when I first reported on the cost of built-in kitchen service, the story was precisely the opposite, indicated that a typical U.S. family was balking its food bills hundreds of dollars a year by buying ready-to-serve foods. At the time my defense was that increasing millions of us were willing to pay the extra price because of the great time savings convenience foods permitted and because their development was substantially improving our food standards.

Now the Dept. of Agriculture has updated its 1957 pilot study, has issued a comprehensive report making available for the first time accurate cost, quality and time-preparation comparisons on a large number of foods in various forms. The findings are an unanticipated comfort to every housewife in the land.

Of 158 convenience foods priced, the government found 116 were more expensive than their home-prepared counterparts—suggesting to a hit-and-run reader that the housewife is still boosting her food budget substantially by buying foods in processed rather than unprocessed forms.

But the key point is that the

more expensive ready-to-serve foods account for only a tiny volume of our purchases. Our buying of convenience foods costing less than their fresh counterparts is so much heavier that we more than offset the effect on our food budgets of the more expensive items we purchase.

Of every $100 we spend for food in grocery stores, $14.03 goes for convenience foods. The cost of an equivalent quantity of the fresh counterparts is $15.10—a difference of $1.07 in favor of ready-to-serve.

Among the big money-savers is frozen orange juice concentrate, for which we spend 68 cents per $100. The equivalent in fresh oranges comes to $1.39. Other major cost-decreasing convenience foods are frozen lima beans, canned and frozen peas, canned spaghetti, devil's food cake mix. Of all the convenience foods studied, instant coffee ranks first in savings, accounts for $1 per $100 spent for food. Substitution of regular roasted ground coffee would almost double consumer spending for coffee to $1.96.

46 Per Cent Difference
Of course, there are cost-increasing convenience foods. Per $100 spent, ready-to-serve baked products, desserts and candy take $1.70 against $1.16 for the home-prepared counterparts—a difference of 46 per cent. Convenience beef, pork, poultry packages take $4.21 against $3.63 for the home-prepared equivalents.

To achieve lower food costs by use of convenience foods, therefore, you must be selective—and here the significant disclosure by the Agriculture Dept. is that the individual consumer "usually is." The startling news is the saving in money. That ready-to-serve foods permit major saving in worktime is indisputable. You can save five minutes per serving of French fries against the home-prepared potatoes, seven minutes per serving of frozen apple or cherry pie against the home-made product, etc. On 42 of the 158 convenience foods, the time saved costs no additional cash because the foods are cheaper. On half of the more expensive convenience foods, the time saved costs less than 60 cents per hour—a much more modest price than I believed probable.

Quality Front
On the quality front too, convenience foods are recording important progress. In most instances, the fresh food is still rated "slightly superior" in appearance, taste and desired texture, but the word now is "slightly" and the variations in quality are tremendous.

From zero, the list of partially or entirely prepared foods has swelled to many hundreds in a few decades. Just the 158 convenience items covered in this study account for 14 per cent of the tens of billions of dollars we spend annually on food in grocery stores.

As the news hits home that selective buying of ready-to-serve can save money in addition to time, every percentage will skyrocket.

Weyauwega took over sole possession of first place in the Central Wisconsin Conference Friday night with a 40-6 conquest of Iola-Scandinavia, while Bonduel was holding previously unbeaten Wittenberg to a 13-13 tie.

Bonduel deserved a better fate as it completely dominated the statistics in the evening's feature game played at Wittenberg.

The Bears grounded out 17 first downs, while limiting the Wildcats to 10, and gained 255 yards rushing to Wittenberg's 108. Despite the statistics, Bonduel had to fight back from a 13-0 halftime deficit to pull off the draw.

After a scoreless first period, the Maroons' Steve Westlund broke the ice in the second quarter, crashing four yards off tackle for a TD.

20-Yard TD
On the ensuing kickoff, an on-side effort, Wittenberg recovered on the Bears' 40. A few plays later, Westlund hit Steve Strong with a 20-yard TD aerial thrust. Mike Van Order passed to Allen Ostrowski for the point-after, giving the Wildcats a 13-0 advantage.

Zonduel capitalized on a 60-yard drive in the third segment. Pat Carroll scampered the final 27 yards for the 6-pointer and Leon Drage converted, reducing the count to 13-7.

About midway through the closing period, Bonduel moved 65 yards for the equalizer. Ron Rose-now plunged the final two yards for the score. The PAT kick was wide.

20-Point Period
Held to seven points in the first period, Weyauwega erupted for 20 points in the second quarter, enroute to its 40-6 romp over Iola-Scandinavia.

The Thunderbirds had racked up their only score on a 77-yard pass-run play from Dave Hoy-ord to Paul Finch, cutting the Indians lead to 7-6, but Wega quickly retaliated on a 49-yard pass from Harold Barker to Dick Aebbe.

It was all Weyauwega the rest of the way as they added four more touchdowns, longest of which came on a Nick Wohlt to Rick Birkholz pass for 22 yards.

Manawa Wins
The passing combination of Bill Testin to Dan Steinbach, plus the running of Mike Brown, paved the way to a 38-7 Manawa win over Marion.

Brown opened the scoring with a 10-yard TD jaunt and shortly thereafter, Testin passed 49 yards to Steinbach for another 6-pointer. It was Brown again later in the period on a 1-yard burst.

Testin and Steinbach clicked again in the second period for a picked up a blocked punt and rambled 25 yards for another score, giving Manawa a 32-7 halftime lead which was never in jeopardy after the intermission.

The Pigeons' only marker came just before the half when Leroy Mielke passed to Gary Much on a 62-yard scoring play.

In a game played at Wautoma, visiting Wauwesa broke a first period 7-7 deadlock with a touchdown in the second quarter and went on to take a 13-7 victory. Both teams went scoreless in the second half.

The win boosted Wauwesa into a third place tie with Manawa, each with a 2-1 mark. Wautoma is now 1-2.

Boy Who Threatened Former Teacher Over Telephone Is Quizzed

Police questioned a 15-year-old youth Thursday who has admitted he used a telephone to threaten a junior high school teacher who disciplined one of the youth's friends.

Martin Kurka, 1816 E. Pauline St., a teacher at the Roosevelt Junior High School, told Appleton police he received a threatening telephone call Thursday evening. He said he recognized the voice as that of a former student. The call, Kurka said, came after he was forced to discipline one of his students Thursday morning.

Detectives questioned the youth and he admitted he made the call when he learned about Kurka's discipline of his friend. The youth has been turned over to Appleton Police juvenile authorities.

Lions 1st Win
In Conference
Play, 25-0Blank Kiel Without Help From Regulars
Ross and Caffish

BRILLION — The loss of two regulars inspired rather than demoralized the Brillion Lions here Friday night when they romped to a 25-0 win over Kiel.

The win was Brillion's first in Eastern Wisconsin Conference play against two losses. Kiel has a tie and three setbacks.

Playing without the services of their star quarterback Jim Ross, who suffered a broken hand and will be out for 30 days, and regular tackle William Caffish, out for the season with a ruptured kidney, the Lions jumped off to a 13-0 lead in the first quarter.

Jerry Krueger, a standout all night, set the stage when he picked off a Kiel aerial in the first quarter and ran 63 yards to the Raider two. Jim Weaver went over from the one on second down and Myron Peters boot-ed the point.

Recover Fumble
A fumble recovery by Brillion's Don Comins on the Kiel 37 led to the second Lion score. The big play in the scoring drive was a 24-yard pass from Comins to Gary Behnke. Weaver tallied his second TD on a one-yard plunge.

In the second period the Lions came up with their best scoring drive of the contest. They marched 73 yards after receiving a punt. The running of Krueger and Weaver and passed by Comins and Dennis Hartman produced the yardage and Hartman scored on a one-yard sneak.

Intercepts Pass
Brillion added an insurance touchdown in the fourth quarter after Behnke intercepted a pass and returned to the Kiel 25. Dennis Bastian snared a 10-yard scoring pass from Hartman to cap the scoring.

An alert Brillion defense came up with three interceptions and two fumble recoveries. The Lions grossed 234 yards including 159 rushing and 75 passing on five for nine. The yardage produced 12 first downs to nine for Kiel.

The Raiders got 50 yards on the ground and 79 passing on five of 14 for a total of 129 yards.

Calumet Homestead Auxiliary Fund Drive Underway in Brillion

BRILLION — The Calumet Homestead Auxiliary is having its annual membership drive in Brillion.

Money from the membership drive has been used to buy three television sets and to keep them in repair, three one-year subscriptions to an area newspaper and lawn chairs. They also brought a special massage mattress, and, during the past year, an occupational therapy program conducted by Margaret Woelfel was begun under the sponsorship of the auxiliary.

The auxiliary also provides summer drives, a summer picnic and a birthday party once a month honoring those whose birthdays fall within that month.

Mrs. Alvin Wolfmeyer is the Brillion chairman of the drive.

Friday's Results:
Chilton 19, Valdars 6.
Brillion 25, Kiel 0.
New Holstein 19, Sheboygan Falls 8.
Guthrie 20, Kohler 7.

CHILTON — Tom Dhein displayed speed and power here Friday night when he tallied three touchdowns to pace the Chilton Tigers to their third straight Eastern Wisconsin Conference win, a 19-6 conquest of Valdars. The win moved Chilton into second place.

Elsewhere in the conference, the front-running New Holstein Huskies trounced Sheboygan Falls 19-0. A crippled but inspired Brillion Lion team turned in a 25-0 win over Kiel and Dave Hilbelink tallied three times to give Oostburg a 20-7 win over Kohler.

At Chilton it was all Dhein, his hard running teammate Matt Lavey, and defense. Dhein rambled for a total of 157 yards, caught one pass for 20 yards and scored on runs of two, six and three yards. He has his best scoring jaunt, a 24-yarder in the fourth quarter, called back when a tackle moved to draw an illegal motion penalty.

Lavey picked up 89 yards in 22 carries.

Poor Start
The defense got off to a poor start. Valdars took the opening kickoff to its 29 and marched 71 yards for a touchdown. The big gainer was Cliff Brennan's 32 yard scamper. Brennan scored from the 16 on a reverse. The point plunge was stopped and Valdars led 6-0.

Chilton got the TD back minutes later. They returned the kickoff to their 37 and marched downfield to score with Dhein going over on a short plunge. Lavey booted the point. Except for a pass from Jeff Ware to Al Whitby, Dhein and Lavey accounted for all of the entire drive with their hard running. The longest gain was 12 yards by Dhein.

The Vikings moved the ensuing kickoff to only their 12 and a fired-up defense pushed them back to the three before the punt. Dhein fielded it and returned to the Viking 25.

Sticking strictly to power plays, the Tigers pushed across with Dhein tallying from the six. The point try was partially blocked and the score was 13-6 midway in the second period.

Missed Opportunity
Chilton missed a fine opportunity to put the game on ice early. The Vikings failed to budge the defense after receiving the kickoff and the Tigers marched from their 38 to the Valdars 12 where a first down fumble was recovered by the Vikings.

They failed to move and the half ended.

The Tigers could manage only one first down after receiving the second half kickoff and pointed to the Valdars 36. The Vikings were stopped cold and kicked to the Tiger 45 setting the stage for the contest's final scoring drive.

Chilton moved in on a sustained drive with Dhein going the last three yards.

Late in the fourth period the Tigers covered a punt on their 26. Dhein ripped off a 39-yard gain into the endzone four plays later only to have the TD nullified by a penalty.

Valders took the ball on downs and played the clock out deep in their own territory.

Held to 2 Yards
The Tiger defense, which surrendered 93 yards in the first half, held Valdars to a minus two yards in the second half. The second half kickoff and Valdars added 30 yard passing on seven completions in 15 attempts for a total offensive effort of 121 yards.

Dhein and Lavey accounted for 246 of Chilton's 247 yards rushing. Ware hit on two of three passes for 31 yards to give the Tigers 277 yards overall.

Chilton had 13 first downs to seven for Valdars.

Second Shutout
At New Holstein the Huskies' vaunted defense notched its second straight shutout, a 19-0 whitewash of Sheboygan Falls.

Ken Heiner sparked the offense pitching a 35 yard scoring sthike to Oran Sattler in the second period and racing 78 yards for the final Huskie TD in the fourth frame. Ken Criter scored for New Holstein in the third period on a four-yard plunge.

Oostburg's dazzling Dave Hilbelink scored three times, on runs of three and 12 yards and a 20 yard pass, to lead the Flying Dutchmen past Kohler 20-6. For Hilbelink, the TDs were 10, 11 and 12 for the campaign. Kohler led briefly, scoring on a 35 yard Maki to Smith pass in the first period.

School Offers
Adult Classes
At Waupaca

WAUPACA — A series of night school classes for adults and recent graduates of Waupaca High School and others in the surrounding area will be offered at the high school starting Tuesday, Oct. 15, according to George Handrich, superintendent of schools.

Each series will run 16 weeks with members of the faculty in charge of instruction. Classes will be offered in art, agriculture, bookkeeping, home economics, industrial arts, personal typing and speech.

The offering of the series of classes was requested by the board of education to make the high school facilities open to the public for training adults. There will be a $10 fee for each course.

People interested in taking a course have been asked to contact the high school office.

Bloodmobile at
New London Soon

NEW LONDON — A quota of 115 pints of blood has been set for the Oct. 9 visit of the bloodmobile, according to Mrs. Elroy Stern, bloodmobile chairman.

The bloodmobile will be at the American Legion clubhouse between the hours of 1:30 and 6:30 p. m. No special blood type is being called for during this visit, Mrs. Stern said.

When the bloodmobile visited New London June 3, the quota was also 115 pints but 21 donors were rejected and only 99 pints of blood were donated.

Names of the local workers who will assist the bloodmobile staff will be announced at a later date.

Jury Finds Shiocton Youth Guilty of Disorderly Conduct

Thomas Kelly, 18, route 2, Shiocton, was found guilty by a six man jury Thursday of disorderly conduct. He was tried in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer called 13 witnesses in the trial which grew out of a fight between Kelly and Burr E. Ellis, Jr. The charge was brought against Kelly on a complaint signed by Ellis' father.

County Judge Gustave Keller withheld sentencing until Monday and has ordered Kelly held in the Outagamie County jail without bond.

Little Thing Like Marriage Isn't Expected to Cure Romeo

BY ANN LANDERS
 DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a girl 19 years who is engaged to marry a fellow 20. Our wedding date is set for November. We've gone to gether for two years. The problem started four months ago when Glenn was transferred to another city. He gets home every other week and we talk on the phone twice during the week. Glenn is never in when I phone him long distance. I give up about midnight because I have to get up to go to work in the morning. One night I stayed up until 3:30 a.m. and still I was unable to reach him. I decided not to do that again. I've heard rumors that he has been stepping out on me. Each time I have asked him he has confessed. He says he gets so lonely he can't stand it, so he takes out other girls. Last week he promised it would never happen again — but it did.

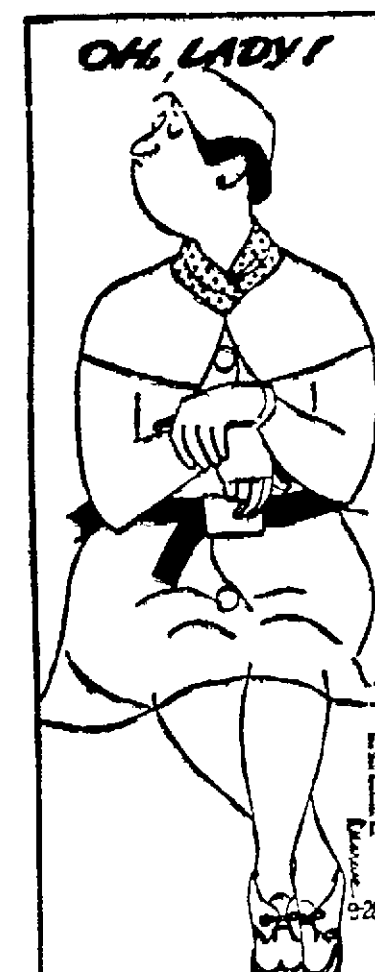

Should I forgive him and hope for the best? — Cheated On Dear Cheated: You're getting married in November, are you? Well, here it is September and if the guy is still running around I would say a little thing like marriage won't cure him. If you marry this fellow please keep my address handy. You'll need it.
 DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has always criticized the way I handled the finances and I admit I'm not the most capable person in the world when it comes to money. Two months ago he hit on an idea. He gave our two daughters, ages 13 and 18, charge of his paycheck and showed them how to budget. They pay the bills, bank a certain amount and each member of the family gets an allowance. It appears that the girls are doing such a bang-up job that he wants to let them continue to handle the family's finances. It ruffles me to work on an allowance while my young daughters are holding the family purse strings. The finances are being well-managed, I'll admit, but I cannot tolerate the humiliation. Please tell me what to do. — One the Dole
 Dear Dole: Tell your husband you want one more crack at the budget, starting next month. Determine to do a fine job of it. If you fail, then he has every right to give it back to the girls but I do feel you should be given an opportunity to save face.
 DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've suffered with this problem for 12 years because I am too ashamed to discuss it with anyone. My husband is a pipe fitter. He works hard and is a good person in many ways. He doesn't drink or run after other women. All our bills are paid on time. The problem is that he comes from work in his filthy work clothes, soaked through with perspiration, and that's the way he eats dinner and goes to bed. On Sunday he puts on his best clothes, right over all the dirt and perspiration. He takes a bath about once every two weeks and ignores the fresh underwear and socks I put out for him every morning. Begging and pleading do no good. This problem has led to another one. When he gets romantic I just about die. Do I have the right to tell him "no" unless he cleans himself up? — Agnes
 Dear Agnes: You do and you should. If the incentive does not produce results then he has a geranium in his cranium and is in need of professional help. To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Neckling and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Dear Heloise:
 I have just made a marvelous discovery. I washed my goose down pillows in the washing machine. They were covered with synthetic taffeta. After in a y years of use they were just too stained and dingy to bear any longer. I jammed them down into the washer with soap suds, set my dial for hot water and two minutes. Went through the rinse cycle and my pillows came out clean but the feathers were all in a hump. After putting them in my dryer for about an hour... I just could not believe it. They are once again big, fluffy snow white and like new.

squeeze you for sending along that hint. Oh... are my pillows hush to sleep on. So easy to wash and dry. The feathers dried quickly as the nylon was quick - drying itself and that air got into the feathers and dried them beautifully. If any of you gals have the bright idea to wash your pillows and put on new ticking, let me give you a few pointers: First, wash your old pillows in the old ticking (or at least wet them first so the feathers will be easy to transfer and won't blow all over creation, your house and the universe.) However, after testing this woman's idea, I found that the feathers wetted much quicker and washed better if nylon taffeta ticking was used. The water and suds literally soak through the synthetic covering, thus no air pockets inside the pillow and this prevents the pillow "floating" on top of the water while washing in the machine. Helps for better rinsing, too. Here's the way I did mine: I filled my bathtub with about nine inches of warm water and suds. Plopped my four pillows in this. (Yes, they floated just like in the washing machine.) What to do? I got barefooted and literally stepped on them, mashing them with my feet until I got all the air out of the case. The water filled inside the case then. I kept stepping, mashing and prancing with my feet until the water became soiled. You will be surprised how little time this will take. I changed the water and added more suds and continued washing until the pillows were clean. I rinsed the same way. Then I dipped the pillows in clear water by holding them at one end. (You will find that all the feathers will end up in ONE end of the case!) I twisted the empty end of the ticking, then stepped on the end where the feathers were and got out loads of water. No effort. Now is the time to cut the case open. The feathers are all wet and will NOT fly. I put the old wet case inside the new nylon one and just shook the wet feathers into the new case. The wet feathers will all go into the new case in a lump. I wrapped a bath towel around the outside of the end where the little gob of feathers was so they wouldn't drip. I took the case to my sewing machine and stitched up the opening. Throw this in your dryer or put on your clothes line and let dry. If you use the clothes line method do not hang feathers in the sun. It dries out the natural oils. Be sure to pat, pound and beat the pillows every hour or so. Turn the pillows upside down between pats and beatings. Gals, be sure to buy good nylon taffeta that is closely woven. It's still cheaper than ticking. I have washed my pillows again with the new nylon taffeta covers just to see if the feathers or the down would come through. Neither did! Change your ticking once in a while. It's glorious. Guess Who? Ohhh I forgot to tell you something. After discovering that vinegar helped bacteria and odors, I used half a cup of it in my last rinse water! Please, try it. The pillows will have no odor after they are dried. Now Guess Who? (Copyright 1963)

Dear Mrs. Lane:
 You just saved me the price of expensive new ticking! And gave me a fabulous idea. I went to my department store and bought nylon taffeta by the yard. I just had to test your idea and see if it washed better and easier than good grade ticking. It's absolutely fabulous! I could

The POWER of FAITH

DANIEL
 (This is the fourth in a series on the greater prophets)
 Daniel, the Last of the Four great prophets, did not write the book which bears his name. It was written 600 years later during the second century B. C., when Jerusalem was under the persecution of Antiochus Epiphanes. The heroic stories of Daniel's faith in God during his captivity in Babylon gave courage and comfort to the faithful of the later age and all ages since. The stories are well known to us; Daniel's success in Nebuchadnezzar's court; his friends being saved from the fiery furnace; the prophecy of Nebuchadnezzar's madness; the hand writing on the wall, and the lion's den. All are stories meant to encourage religious peoples to maintain their faith in time of trial. Fear of the future was great for the Jews in the time of Antiochus Epiphanes, as it was in Daniel's time and as it is in ours. Daniel proved that God is greater than human rulers, and that through faith and patience, living each day nobly, man can find his purpose in life.

Try to Avoid Finesse, Says Champ
 BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
 "Good players look for a way to avoid a finesse," Doug Drury was saying to his class in San Francisco. The other day, as I shamelessly eavesdropped from another room, Drury should know what good players do since he has won oodles of national and regional championships.

 Drury illustrated his point with a hand that I filched from him later. The average player would go down on this hand. Drury's pupils would make it. And so would readers of this column. South refuses the first two spade tricks but wins the third. Now he needs two diamond tricks to make the contract. The average player would go over to dummy with a club to take a diamond finesse. Curtains! West wins with the king of diamonds and defeats the contract with the rest of the spades. No Finesse
 The expert takes no finesse. After winning the third spade, the expert leads out the ace of diamonds. The fall of the king of diamonds is just grat. South would make the contract even if East had both the king and queen of diamonds. South would give up a diamond, win the heart return and give up another diamond. Then he would take the rest with high cards. The play of the ace of diamonds guarantees the contract when West has the singleton king or queen. If West has the guarded king or queen of diamonds, the contract is doomed. Daily Question
 Partner opens with 1 No Trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold S-K J 5, H-Q J 8 3, D-Q 7 3 2, C-B 2. What do you say?
 ANSWER: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention. This asks partner to show a major suit if he can. If he bids two hearts, you will raise to four hearts. Otherwise, you will go to three no trump. (Copyright, 1963)

Rummage Sale Planned By Clintonville WSCS

CLINTONVILLE — A rummage sale will be sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service at the First Methodist Church the night of Oct. 10 and from 8 to 11 a.m. Oct. 11. Mrs. James Smiley is chairman. All clothing and materials for the sale should be brought to the church by the first of that week.

Lutheran Faith
 Luther did not start a new church
 He merely began where he was—with the church of which he had been a member—and set about reforming it.
 He dug deep to restore a "gospel-oriented and Christ-centered" theology to the church.
 He removed from The Service elements that were not evangelical, and restored congregational participation to the worship life of the church.
 Only after Luther's death was the name Lutheran used to designate a communion of the holy, catholic church.

Valachi told his story under the protection of about 20 U.S. Marshals scattered through the big hearing room in the Senate office building room where the probe is being held.

Police believe the nationwide secret criminal society, which its members call La Cosa Nostra—Our Thing—or Our Family, and outsiders sometimes call the Mafia, has put a $100,000 price on Valachi's head.

Valachi told the senators about the night that Genovese — whom Valachi said he respected so much he stuttered when addressing him—gave him the kiss of death.

The lights were out in the cell, and Genovese told him, "Sometimes when you have a barrel of apples, one of them is touched—not all rotten, but touched. It has to be removed or it will touch the other apples."

Assaulted by Convict

Genovese got up, grabbed his hand "and gave me a kiss," Valachi said. Valachi said he understood Genovese back to show he understood.

Valachi said he recognized a "set up" to kill him a few days later in the prison yard when another convict called him a rat and other things in Italian.

Valachi said he believed the idea was to provoke a fight in which convicts would surround him while one of them knifed him in the back. Valachi said he pretended not to hear the insults.

Member of Gang

The name-caller, he said, was Vito Agucsi, whom he named as a Toronto, Canada, member of the Buffalo, N.Y., unit of La Cosa Nostra.

Agucsi had lyingly passed word to Genovese that Valachi was an informer, Valachi said.

He testified that he lived in terror after the kiss, and beat a fellow convict to death with a length of pipe in the mistaken belief he was one of Genovese's assassins in the prison.

Given Life Sentence

Valachi, serving time for a narcotics conviction, received a life sentence for the prison killing.

Valachi said he believed New York hoodlum John (Johnny Dio) Dioguardi, who was also doing a stretch in Atlanta, tried to set up another assassination attempt in a shower room but Valachi stayed clear.

He named Dioguardi as a member of La Cosa Nostra.

Valachi said Genovese told him that Strollo had "disappeared" while Genovese was in Atlanta. He said that this use of the word "disappeared" meant that Genovese had got word to his mob on the outside that Strollo should be slain, and that the order was obeyed.

He said the mob gave him "business" protection, but not protection from the law. Asked what he did in return for this he said he killed for them. He said he took care of people who bothered Genovese.

The hearings stood in recess today to resume Tuesday with Valachi back on the witness stand.

Rusk, Gromyko And Lord Home Meet for Talks

at this time because of its relation to the German issue.

The Western leaders want guarantees on West Berlin's freedom included in any nonaggression pact. Rusk and Home agreed with Schroeder that nothing should be done to damage the chances for German reunification.

The Western three looked with more favor on the observer exchanges, under which inspectors would be stationed at major transport centers where they could warn of large military movements.

Whether Gromyko would attach unacceptable conditions to this was something Rusk and Home hoped to find out. Informants said the Soviets have not tipped their hand since Khrushchev outlined the idea in vague terms.

Will Gromyko insist that the observation posts be confined to East and West Germany? The Western three vetoed that Friday on grounds it would enhance the division of Germany but they approved of an exchange which would cover a wide area including the Soviet Union and the United States.

Will Gromyko link an observer exchange to pull atomic weapons out of Central Europe a cut in forces to other conditions set by the Soviets when they advanced the observer plan in the 1950's? The Western powers rejected such conditions then and Rusk and Home are reported still opposed to it.

Error in Ike's Marker Due to be Corrected

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—City officials plan to correct a mistake in the inscription on a marker unveiled Friday by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in a park named in his honor.

"Dedicated in honor of Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of the United States 1952-1960," says the inscription.

Harry S. Truman was president in 1952, and Eisenhower's term did not end until Jan. 20, 1961.

No one was willing to admit where the mistake was made.

for the security of the former president.

Bosch's wife, who flew in from Puerto Rico and made sharp comments against the junta, took asylum in the Chilean embassy after a telephone conversation with her husband. She had been granted permission to visit him in the presidential palace.

A brother-in-law of Bosch, Virgilio Ortiz Pena, and a nephew Virgilio Ortiz Bosch, were arrested by national police, their families said. Police Lt. Col. Rafael Orell Eumeo denied the report.

The junta freed Bosch's senate president and four of his cabinet ministers but kept in custody deposed Vice President Armando Gonzalez Tamayo and three other ex-ministers.

The junta pressed its hunt for suspected Communists and announced it had arrested more than 60.

The military leaders said the major reason they deposed Bosch was that he was soft against Communists. Manuel Tavares Espallat, one of the three provisional rulers, repeated the charge that Bosch was an "instrument of Communists" but said he did not believe Bosch is a Communist.

Then you'll think about winter—snow shoveling, fuel bills, cars that won't start, dead batteries, trucks and Christmas presents. All of this, no doubt, will bring on a state of acute depression. You'll long for spring, warm air and blue skies. You'll develop a headache.

But that's life.

We suggest you do this now. Take a couple of aspirins, a glass of water and hit the sack.

Negroes Show Little Interest In Joining Greek Societies

Leaders Believe Other Problems More Pressing for Time Being

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NAACP, said he believed the Negroes, who have tumbled educational racial barriers in a massive national drive, so far have paid little attention to one aspect of college life — the fraternity and sorority.

In some colleges and universities across the country, the Negro already is included on the rolls of such campus organizations.

In other schools there exist all-Negro fraternities and fraternities. In most other institutions where fraternities and sororities have no nonwhite members, the Negro so far has done little to indicate he wants to join.

Several regional officials of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said the Negro feels being admitted to previously all-white schools was a big enough step for the present.

Chester Lewis, president of the Wichita, Kan., chapter of the Associated Press showed that very few of those colleges checked had fraternities or sororities which had racial clauses written into the charters or bylaws.

However, such clauses do appear in the constitutions and charters of some national fraternities and sororities.

In most such cases, college officials said, the individual fraternities contend they do not abide by the regulations. In some instances, local groups have broken away from the parent organization rather than live up to the discrimination clause.

Despite all that, educators said there was a conspicuous absence of Negroes in most of the nation's fraternities and sororities.

If any racial discrimination is practiced in the groups, school officials can point only to the feelings of the individual students when they meet behind closed doors in their houses to vote on the rejection or acceptance of each pledge.

Sign Pledges

Noting the absence of Negro participation in fraternity and sorority life, many school officials have spelled out formally and officially the institution's disapproval of discrimination.

Some have required that officers of the individual houses sign pledges not to choose members on a racial basis.

Some observers believe there is a reluctance on the part of the Negro to demand that he be allowed to associate with the whites on such an intimate basis as would be the case in a sorority or a fraternity. The members often eat and sleep in the same house, sometimes sharing dormitory quarters.

The traditionally fraternal and social campus organizations won't actually begin screening membership candidates until late this month or later.

Some Shocked

One of the few reported incidents involving Negroes and a campus organization took place recently at Long Beach State College, Calif., when three Negro coeds attended off-campus sorority rushing parties and reported others present were "sort of shocked."

"Because there is no Negro sorority," said one of the girls, "we have to go to the rush."

Shortly after, the three said they were giving up their attempt because "it just isn't worth all the trouble and expense."

"Sororities are social organizations," one of the girls said. "You can't force yourself upon somebody under such circumstances. If they were interested in accepting Negroes, they wouldn't try to get out from under school regulations."

The college suspended six of the eight sororities on charges they attempted to bypass a college ban against racial restrictions by holding their rushing activities off campus.

Macmillan Pondering Political Future on Vacation in Country

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan retired to his country home Friday to ponder the biggest question of British politics—will he seek another term?

His decision, he told the nation in an emotional television interview Thursday night, will take no account of the Profumo scandal.

"I shall have only one thing in mind," he said, "what is best for the country and the Conservative party."

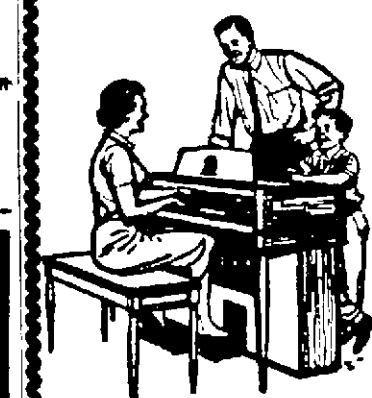

With argument still raging over Lord Denning's report and its accusation that Macmillan failed to meet his responsibility in the Profumo affair, the prime minister left for Chequers, his official country residence 35 miles west of London.

'Zenda' Musical May Become Broadway Hit

Mishap Brings Laughs to Hollywood Performance, Opens Soon in New York

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Early in the second act of the new musical "Zenda," the villain made the motion of hurking a dagger at the hero.

The dagger, which was to pop out of a box in a bit of stage trickery, arrived about 30 seconds too late.

It was one of those onstage mishaps that brought a big laugh from the audience, and the performers, too. To those patrons it seemed to emphasize the hit-and-miss quality of the show. But by the final curtain the hits seemed to outnumber the misses, and "Zenda's" chances for Broadway success appeared better than average.

Civic Light Opera

"Zenda," which will open at the Mark Hellinger Theater Oct. 26, is a product of Los Angeles-San Francisco Civic Light Opera, which gave the theater such hits as "Song of Norway," "Kismet" and "Peter Pan." It has also provided distinguished flops like "Magdalena" and "Three Wishes for Jamie."

Edwin Lester, general director, has mounted "Zenda" with the impeccable taste that marks all civic light opera attractions. It has three top stars, direction by George Schaefer, music by Vernon Duke, dances by Jack Cole.

The idea of musicalizing the Anthony Hope novel, "The Prisoner of Zenda" (filmed in 1922, 1937 and 1952), seems to be a good notion. The plot structure is sturdy enough to bear the weight of a musical without being too intricate to slow things down.

Its Drawbacks

Why, then, is "Zenda" not an unqualified hit? The answer seems to lie in a clash of styles. The show is primarily an operetta, rare nowadays. The ponderous scenery, the sometimes lurid acting style, the Graustarkian atmosphere are at odds with attempts to update the proceedings.

The music also lacks the lilt that is necessary for a successful operetta.

Three Top Stars

But there are assets that help offset these factors. The performers come through superbly. Alfred Drake, possibly the best bravura star of the musical stage, gives utmost skill to the tricky, dual role.

Chita Rivera, late of "West Side Story" and "Bye Bye Birdie," again shows her versatility as the king's fiery mistress. Anne Rogers, who played "My Fair Lady" 1,700 times, rounds out the starring trio.

Phil Silvers Returns in 'New' Series

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-8 (Channel 2)—Phil Silvers is back. He's calling his program The New Phil Silvers Show but the only thing basically new is the setting. Otherwise, this is Bilko revisited. Instead of an army camp, we're in a factory. Instead of being a sergeant, Phil is a foreman. Instead of outwitting a colonel, he outwits a boss. Instead of a platoon helping him out, he's aided by his maintenance department crew.

3:30-4:30 (Channel 2)—This week's NCAA Football Game comes from Los Angeles, with the University of Southern California, a top-rated team, versus University of Oklahoma.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 11)—Hootenanny drops in on the University of Pittsburgh and an enthusiastic audience helps some enthusiastic singers. Louis Nye is comedian of the week. Top numbers here are The Brothers Four, Leon Bibb, the Williams Gospel Singers and tall Judy Henske.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2)—The Jackie Gleason Show returns for a new season, with pretty much the same format as last year. From the opening monologue (spiced by a Sammy Spear poem) to the closing duologue with Frank Fontaine as Crazy, this is typical Gleasonian entertainment. The newscast is back and Jackie drops in on two of his favorite guises—the Poor Soul and Reggie.

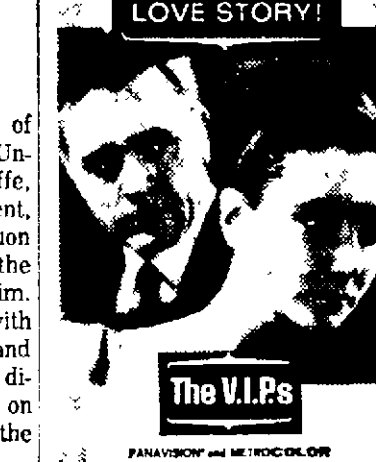

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5)—The Lieutenant, for the first time, capitalizes on its Marine Corps setting and the result is its best outing. Gary Lockwood, to check on reports that Sgt. Rip Torn is too brutal in his training methods, becomes a private in Torn's squad.

8-9 (Channel 2)—Back for a new season in a new time is The Defenders, and the first drama offers a 'thing new but does it with excellence. Dennis Hopper is superb as a tortured soul who kills his father and brother and tries to feign insanity, while actually covering up a different form of mental problem.

8-10 (Channel 4-5)—Saturday Night At the Movies presents "The Journey," a 1959 film that buried its innate suspensefulness under too much pretensions talk. Deborah Kerr, Yul Brynner, Jason Robards Jr., Robert Morley and E. G. Marshall star. (Color)

'Luther' Seen As Brilliant Theater Event

British Albert Finney In American Debut As Tormented Monk

BY WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The first notable event of this Broadway season is "Luther."

Brilliant with theatrical finesse and lustrously performed, the play by England's John Osborne opened at the St. James.

Albert Finney, who has rocketed into the British stage and screen spotlight during the past three years, plays the title role. It is his American debut.

As the bellicose, conscience-tormented monk who ignited the 16th century Protestant Reformation, Finney gives a remarkable surprising in this story of a youth who finds the chance to grab a pile of money—all he has to do is kill a man—irresistible.

and complex portrayal. With him under the direction of Tony Richardson is an articulate group including Kenneth J. Warren as Luther's blunt father; John Moffatt, a practical-minded cardinal; Frank Shelley, a fellow priest; and Peter Bull, peddler of clerical indulgences.

The drama focusses on Luther's inner struggle, and takes no side theologically. The nature and arrangement of material, however, may limit appeal to those who are interested in serious theater.

Most of the fireworks are concentrated in a second act that spans the years between start of Luther's crusade and the historic assemblage at Worms. The first act, of necessary preparation, is long, and the third can't match the median episodes.

The technical aspects of the production are excellent, ranging from Jocelyn Herbert's loftily simple settings and muted costumes, through vivid lighting effects and John Addison's aptly liturgical chants and tonal crescendos.

"Luther" gives Broadway a welcome display of grandeur amid much surrounding tinsel.

CLINTONVILLE — Kimberly stopped Clintonville on the 3-yard line in the last 10 seconds of the game Friday night and took a thrilling 14-13 Mid-Eastern Conference win.

Kimberly stayed unbeaten, while the Clintonville suffered their first loss. The Truckers took the ball after the second Papermaker touchdown and marched 72 yards to the Kimberly three. There were 40 seconds to play when the Truckers were on the nine. They pushed to the five, but had no more time left. Three wild pushes moved only to the three and Kimberly took over.

The Papermakers had scored the deciding touchdown in the last three minutes following a fumble recovery on the Clintonville 28. A 9-yard aerial strike from Dennis Kroner made it fourth down at the three. Kroner swept around end for the TD. Jim Vandenhuevel kicked the deciding extra point.

Clintonville had broken a 7-7 halftime deadlock with a touchdown early in the third quarter. They started on their own 26, and with Steve Hedike picking up most of the ground, advanced to the Kimberly three. A penalty and a 10-yard Hedike dash helped the drive. Bill Melzer powered over from the three for the touchdown. The point after touchdown attempt was blocked. As it turned out the 13-7 Clintonville lead was not enough.

Neither team had any serious threats in the opening quarter. Both were testing the other's defenses.

The Clintonville opened the scoring on a 52-yard drive, largely on the ground, early in the second period. A third down pass from Melzer to Sam Hogan kept the drive going. Melzer finally pounded over from the five and Kurt Holm added the extra point.

A key pass from Kroner to Keith Buchberger on a third and 15 situation covered 62 yards for Kimberly and put the ball on the Clintonville 16. Kroner hit Jerry Wyngaard a few plays later for the Papermakers' opening touchdown from 16 yards away. Art Wittman ran the extra point which tied the score 7-7 at halftime.

There are only two days of the baseball season remaining, and the pitchers apparently still are ahead of the hitters.

Here's the way it went Friday night:

Cincinnati's John Tsitouris shut out St. Louis for the second consecutive Friday, checking the Cardinals 3-0 on two hits.

Stu Miller Sets Record for Total Relief Appearances

BALTIMORE (AP)—Stu Miller, chosen by Baltimore sportswriters as the most valuable player of the Baltimore Orioles, capped his first season Friday night by setting his second American League record.

The 35-year-old relief specialist appeared in his 71st game of the season, breaking the record of 70 set in 1960 by Mike Fornieles of the Boston Red Sox.

Relieving rookie John Miller in the eighth inning with Baltimore leading 3-2 and the potential tying run on base, Stu was credited with his 20th "save" of the season.

It also was the 20th game he has finished, three more than the

Tsitouris Shuts Out Cardinals, 3-0, in 2-Hit Performance

City also hurled a two-hitter as the A's defeated Cleveland 3-1.

Rookie Fritz Ackley and Hoyt Wilhelm combined on a three-hitter in the second game as the Chicago White Sox clinched second place in the American League by sweeping a doubleheader from Washington 11-2 and 7-1.

Minnesota's Camilo Pascual became the first pitcher in the AL this season to strike out 200, winning his 21st game in a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees.

And Stu Miller walked out of the Baltimore bullpen for the 71st time, setting an AL record for most appearances, and pitched two scoreless innings in a 5-2 triumph over Detroit.

Things were a little more normal in the hitting department on the remainder of the NL program. Philadelphia knocked off the National League champion Los Angeles Dodgers 5-3. Pittsburgh whipped San Francisco 8-3, the Chicago Cubs edged Milwaukee 3-2 and the New York Mets belted Houston 10-3.

Boston and the Los Angeles Angels, in the AL, were not scheduled.

Tsitouris, 12-8, got the nod over Cardinal starter Ray Sadecki when Tommy Harper's homer with one out in the ninth triggered the three-run rally that won for the Reds.

Allows Run

Wickersham, 12-15, drove in the deciding run in the sixth inning with a single, then allowed the Indians lone run in the seventh on Fred Whitfield's homer. Ed Charles homered for the A's.

Ackley pitched no-hit ball for six innings, yielded two hits in the seventh and gave way to Wilhelm. Mike Hershberger collected four singles and a homer for the White Sox, driving in three runs in each game.

Pascual, 21-9, scattered nine hits and struck out nine for a 202 total. He also drove in a run with a single. One of the hits off Pascual was a homer by Roger Maris.

Miller surpassed the 20 appearances made by Boston's Mike Fornieles in 1960 when he came on in the eighth inning for the Orioles. Jim Gentile knocked in three runs with three singles and Jackie Brandt hit a two-run homer.

Slams Double

Trailing 3-1, the Phillies broke loose against the Dodgers in the sixth for three runs after two were out on singles by Cookie Rojas, Richie Allen and Roy Sievers and a two-run double by Don Demeter.

The Pirates made the most of two walks, an error and three hits for a five-run third inning that got the job done against the Giants. Willie Stargell drove in three Pittsburgh runs with a homer and two-run single.

The Colts sent out an all-rookie line-up against the Mets. Jay Dahl, a 17-year-old, was the starter with the entire nine-man team showing only 14 years of pro experience. The Mets breezed behind a 15-hit attack.

The night's developments saw Tommy Davis of the Dodgers open a five-point lead in his bid to retain the NL batting title. Davis went 2-for-3 and raised his average to .325.

Boston's Carl Yastrzemski apparently has the AL race title wrapped up with a .320 average. Al Kaline of Detroit, scheduled to report to a hospital for a check-up, is at .311.

Chicago Appears On Way Back to Success of '40s

BY TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Have the halcyon days really returned for the Chicago Bears—the once awesome "Monsters of the Midway" in the National Football League? Sunday may provide the answer when the unbeaten Bears tangle with the Detroit Lions in the Motor City.

The game tops a full NFL program that also has St. Louis at Pittsburgh, Baltimore at Green Bay, New York at Philadelphia, San Francisco at Minnesota, Dallas at Washington and Los Angeles at Cleveland.

The Bears, who dominated the NFL back in the 1940's, are on the upgrade with successive victories over the champion Green Bay Packers and the Minnesota Vikings with Bill Wade in the starring role. In fact George Halas' Bears have won seven of their last eight league games, including five of their last six 1962 games.

This is traveling at an 875 pace and the Lions, beaten last week by Green Bay, will have to execute a sharp about-face to stop the new "Monsters." A victory would keep the Bears atop the Western Conference.

The Cleveland Browns and St. Louis Cardinals, currently tied at 2-0 for the lead in the Eastern Conference, may part company after Sunday's games. The Browns, with Jimmy Brown tearing off huge chunks of yardage as of yore, figure to rip the winless Los Angeles Rams. The Car-

Freak Play Helps Cubs Down Braves

10,088 WATCH CHICAGO POST 3-2 VICTORY

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves can write off the 1963 season as just one of those years. Even a National League rule governing the positions of umpires has turned against them.

The Chicago Cubs dealt Milwaukee's hopes for a fourth place finish a crushing blow by edging the sixth-rung Braves 3-2 on a pair of unearned runs and an umpire's unintentional interference Friday night before a crowd of 10,088 at County Stadium.

The Cubs picked up a run off starter Bob Sadowski in the third on doubles by Lou Brock and Billy Williams. Then the unusual umpire's interference came in the Milwaukee half of the inning, costing the Braves at least one run.

With Denny Menke on second and Len Gabrielson, who walked while batting for Sadowski, on first, Ty Cline lined a drive which appeared headed for centerfield. Instead, the ball struck umpire Ed Sudol on the leg.

In Proper Post

Under league rules, Sudol was in his proper position, in front and just to the left of second base. He was unable to avoid the sharp liner. If he had been positioned under American League rules, he would have been behind second and could easily have got out of the way.

The ball was dead as soon as it hit Sudol, who had to leave the game with a severe bruise. Cline was held to a single and the runners could advance only one base. Frank Bolling then grounded into an inning-ending doubleplay.

"That was the turning point," said Milwaukee manager Bobby Bragan. "I've never seen anything like it. I've seen umpires hit by a ball, but never in a situation that cost a team a run or changed the complexion of the game. Menke would have scored easily on the hit and we would have had a different game."

The Braves managed to tie the count on Eddie Mathews 23rd

Marathon Relay Drones Through Desert Heat

DAGGETT, Calif. (AP)—The 2,321-mile marathon relay from Los Angeles to Detroit droned through desert heat toward the Grand Canyon of the Colorado Saturday.

A crew of 16 runners, in groups of four, was slowly eating up the miles toward the Motor City to point up the desirability of Detroit being host for the 1964 Olympic Games.

Each runner covers five miles, is picked up by his bus, and a teammate replaces him. After the group of four has completed its 20 miles, another bus comes alongside, and another crew takes over for 20 miles.

All the runners are experienced distance men, but the 106-degree heat in Los Angeles, when they started at 11 a.m. Friday, made the first leg to San Bernardino on the edge of the Mojave Desert an exhausting one. It was after 7 o'clock and dusk by the time the first leg of 60 miles was completed.

FOND DU LAC — The vaunted offensive attack of Appleton High School's Terrors sputtered for one period here Friday night, but then moved into high gear to score six touchdowns enroute to a 42-12 conquest of Fond du Lac in a Fox Valley Conference game.

Prior to the 42-point uprising, it looked like an upset was in the making as the Cardinals smashed home two quick TDs to take a 12-0 first-period lead.

On the third play of the game,

Fondy's Bob St. Lawrence streaked 75 yards, after cutting back on a sweep, to give the fired-up home forces a 6-0 advantage.

Later in the quarter, the Terrors seemed headed for the equalizer as they moved toward midfield, only to have the Cardinals' Jim McCready intercept a Chuck McKee aerial and return the ball to the Terrors' five. Two plays later, St. Lawrence cracked over for his second six-pointer and a 12-0 Fondy lead.

Strasser Scores To Keep Indians' Record Perfect

GREEN BAY — Green Bay East had two almost-touchdowns, but Oshkosh had one for real, and that was all the visiting Indians needed in East Stadium Friday night as they bumped the Red Devils, 7-0, in a rattle-battle Fox River Valley conference game.

The Indians, now 3-0 for the season, rammed across the touchdown on the last scrimmage play of the first quarter and then hung on with their time-eating ground game to eke out the win, handing East its first defeat in three games.

Myles Strasser, the Indians' 202-pound fullback who was equipped with a multi-barred face mask to protect a broken nose, hammered over the touchdown from the 1-yard line.

Jets to Seek Another Upset

Kansas City Will Battle Seattle Sunday

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The revitalized New York Jets don't expect to make the financial pages in Sunday's newspapers, but they hope to make a big splash in the sports section with another upset victory in the American Football League.

The Jets, under new ownership, lately have attracted the attention of the financial readers with an advertising campaign designed to back up their improvement on the field.

They scored a 24-17 surprise victory over the Houston Oilers last week and hope to make it two in a row by upsetting the Oakland Raiders at the Polo Grounds to night.

Lead at Stake

In another Saturday night AFL game Houston is at Buffalo. Sunday Kansas City is at San Diego with leadership in the Western Division at stake while Boston, No. 1 in the Eastern Division, is at Denver.

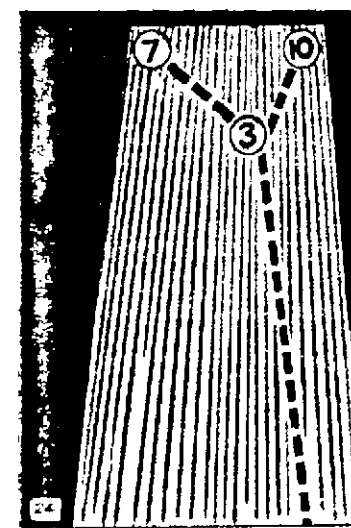

Houston, with Billy Cannon ready for "limited duty," is expected to rebound against Buffalo since the Bills' star, Cookie Gilchrist, still is hobbled by an ankle injury.

With the divisional leadership at stake, the Kansas City-San Diego game shapes up as the best of the weekend. Veteran Tobin Rote has guided the Chargers to two straight victories while the Steelers hope to get back on the win side after last week's 27-27 tie with Buffalo. Boston should take winless Denver.

Bowling Tips

BY DON CARTER AND MARION LADEWIG

Picking Off 3-7-10

The 3-7-10 split is a horrible sight at first, but it can be made. Concentrate on getting your ball to go between the 3 and 10. If you do, you will frequently cause the No. 3 to slide across the lane and bring down the No. 7. The ball will have gotten the No. 10.

The result is spectacular, something to remember for days afterward. The main thing is to think only of the 3-10.

Floors Foe 2 Times in Televised Bout

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Toronto strongboy, George Chualo, said he was very anxious to fight Cassius Clay, the No. 1 heavyweight contender.

Chualo and Clay were to sign today for a bout here in early November, the date depending upon television arrangements.

Chualo earned his shot at the Louisville Lip with a decision over Miami's Mike DeJohn in a 10-round, nationally televised bout Friday night. The Canadian sent DeJohn to the floor twice for counts of nine and seven in the sixth round.

The fight developed into a masterpiece of confusion in the second round. Chualo hung DeJohn over the ropes and poured a series of punches to the head. A foul was called on the Canadian and DeJohn was given time to recover under Kentucky rules. Chualo later insisted he had scored a legitimate knockout.

Asked if Clay posed any particular problem, Chualo answered: "Every fighter is a particular problem. I would like for him to come to me but I don't think he will."

DeJohn's most effective rounds were the first and fifth but his strongest blows failed to wobble Chualo, who held a 21 1/4 to 20 1/2 weight edge.

Some two dozen youths were taken into custody. Two 17-year-old boys were booked, one for being drunk and disorderly and the other for cursing police.

Pleasantville is five miles west of Atlantic City. Middle Township is about 35 miles to the south.

Earlier this week, an Associated Press survey disclosed that night games involving high school teams were being abandoned in Toledo, Ohio, and Milwaukee because of crowd misconduct. Chicago cut out night football games for public high schools in 1954, and Providence, R.I. and Bridgeport, Conn. did the same later because of rowdiness, fights and vandalism.

At Columbus, Ohio, a game between the South and Marion Franklin high schools was held up about three minutes when a fight broke out. Fans traded punches, but scattered before nine police cruisers arrived on the scene.

No injuries were reported. One youth said he was assaulted after the game. He said he and his friends were walking home when a carload of youths pulled up, asked what school they attended, and then attacked them. The boy was treated for a possible broken nose and lacerations.

Premontre '11' Romps Past Pennings, 36-0

Big 8 Conference's Top Rung Still Cluttered

BY JOHN IGLEHART

Appleton Xavier's football fortune continued to rise Friday night on the play of All-State half-back Bob "Rocky" Bleier who ran and kicked the Zephyrs to their 36th straight triumph.

The 5-foot-11, 180-pound senior scored touchdowns on one and 17 yard runs in the 19-0 victory over Menasha St. Mary. Bleier kicked one extra point and powered 148 yards in 24 carries for the Fox Valley Catholic Conference favorites.

Conference favorites throughout the state pushed past opponents almost without exception and in many cases individual performances led the way.

The top rung of the Big Eight Conference remained cluttered as Beloit blanked Kenosha 21-0 and Madison West defeated Madison East 27-6 to remain undefeated.

Unbeaten teams in the Fox Valley Catholic Conference dwindled to two. Appleton trounced Fond du Lac 42-12; Oshkosh beat Green Bay East 7-0; and Sheboygan South edged Manitowish 14-13. Appleton and Oshkosh have 2-0 conference records.

Fullback Myles Strasser plunged one yard in the opening period to again pace the Oshkosh offensive attack. Appleton rolled up 420 yards passing and running to its triumph. Fullback Gary Hietpas scored twice and gained 136 yards in 23 carries for Appleton.

Blanks Pennings

Green Bay Premontre blanked De Pere Pennings 36-0 in another Fox Valley Catholic Conference contest. Premontre and Appleton Xavier, each holding a 2-0 league mark, square off Friday night in a game which might well decide the conference championship.

First place in the Big Rivers Conference remained a three-way affair with Chippewa Falls, Wausau and Eau Claire Memorial battling for the title. Chippewa Falls (2-0) defeated Arcadia 31-0 in a non-conference game while Wausau (2-0) ripped Eau Claire North 47-0 and Eau Claire Memorial (2-0) edged La Crosse Logan 13-9.

Fullback Bill Jacobs scored both of Eau Claire's touchdowns on runs of two and six yards.

Sophomore halfback Paul Flesch carried the ball 134 yards in 17 carries to pace Chippewa Falls. McDonnell to its fifth straight triumph, 12-0 over Stevens Point Pacelli in the Central Wisconsin Catholic Conference. McDonnell lost all eight games last season.

Cudahy and Whitefish Bay a perennial power in the Milwaukee Suburban Conference, fought to a 6-6 tie. As a result the defending champions dropped from the league lead shared now by Shorewood and Waukesha with 3-0 records.

Oostburg's halfback speedster Dave Hilbelink continued his three-touchdown-a-game pace in his team's 20-7 victory over Kohler. Tom Rhein of Chilton also scored three touchdowns in a 19-6 triumph over Valders.

In a game matching unbeaten Badger Conference teams, Stoughton defeated Monona Grove 25-14 for its second victory. The loss snapped a ten-game winning streak for Monona.

Seek Higher Baltimore Standards

Oriole Officials Don't Want To Break Up the Yankees

BY GORDON BEARD

BALTIMORE (AP) — "We don't want to break up the Yankees; we want to beat up the Yankees." This statement by Joseph A. W. Iglehart, chairman of the Baltimore Orioles' board of directors, typifies the club's determination to overtake the perennial champions of the American League.

"We must become better than New York," said Iglehart, the team's No. 1 stockholder who also ranks himself as the No. 1 Yankee hater.

"It can be done," he said. "We're on the road, but it will take a long time, and we must have a lot of patience."

Zanyvl Krieger, the Oriole treasurer and another top stockholder, said about the same thing. "I don't subscribe to the idea of bringing people down to your level," he said. "We must reach the other fellow's high standards."

The owners and Lee MacPhail, Oriole president and general manager, agree the best way to attract fans is to have a contending team or a close pennant race. Baltimore and the American League had neither this year.

After battling New York for the pennant in 1960, the Orioles have wound up third, seventh and fourth — finishing worse in the "games behind" column each year.

Attendance has dropped from a record high of 1,187,849 in 1960 to a record low of less than 780,000 this year.

But the owners haven't panicked, not threatened to move the franchise in an effort to stir local interest. What's more, they keep out of the front office and let MacPhail run the operation.

"I haven't the slightest doubt about the team staying in Baltimore," Iglehart said. "It's bad for baseball to keep moving teams around."

Home Run Power Gives Series Edge to Yanks, Says Reichler

BY JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — The home run, a lethal weapon that has carried them to 20 World Series triumphs in 40 years, is likely to bring the New York Yankees another world championship, their seventh in eight October meetings with the Dodgers.

As in four of their previous seven meetings, the 1963 Series should go the limit of seven games. Except for the long ball, a department in which the Yankees clearly excel, there is little to choose between the teams.

The Dodgers, because of the possibility of the appearance of Sandy Koufax in three games, have a slight edge in pitching. The Yankees have a stouter defense, but the Dodgers offset much of this advantage by their superior speed. The Yankees also have whatever advantage comes from Series experience.

Everything points to a pitchers' Series with runs scarce. This should suit the Yankees fine. One single blow has been known to end many a series pitching duel and the Yankees' starting line-up, with the exception of Bobby Richardson and Tony Kubek, harbors home run power. The Dodgers, forced to claw and scratch for runs during the regular season, have only two legitimate long ball hitters in Tommy Davis and Frank Howard.

A Plus Factor

Opening at Yankee Stadium, which would be the site of four in a seven-game series, is another plus factor for the Yankees. Ralph Houk's team has a remarkable record at home, winning 58 of 78 so far. In contrast, the Yankees won 46 while losing 35 on the road.

The Dodgers surprisingly have played almost as well on the road as they have at home. Through Thursday's games, they show a 49-28 home record compared with 49-32 away.

The planned pitching alignment by the rival managers also figures to give the Yankees an edge, however slight. Barring 11th hour changes, Houk will open with Whitey Ford. Koufax will oppose 39-20 against southpaws. One of the reasons they fared so well against left-handers is the switch hitting ability of Mickey Mantle and Tommy Tresh.

The Dodgers must offset their lack of power with speed. Out-homered 186 to 107 in games through Thursday, the Los Angeles speedsters have stolen approximately three times as many bases as the Yankees. Willis has swiped 37 and Willie Davis 25. The entire Yankee team has stolen only 41.

The prediction here is that the Series will end Friday, Oct. 11, at Yankee Stadium with Ford beating Koufax 1-0 in the seventh game on a late-inning home run by Elston Howard, the hitting hero of the World Series. It's that close.

AHS Routs Fond du Lac

rors moved 72 yards in 16 plays, with Gary Hietpas grinding out most of the yardage and finally punning over from two yards out.

Bill Feind's first of six conversion kicks was good.

Just before intermission, the Terrors found paydirt again. After McKee returned a punt to the Terrors 46, he hit Tom Callaway with a 36-yard pass to the Cardinals' 18. Chuck then completed a 6-yard thrust to Ken Kitzinger and a 10-yarder to Callaway in the end zone. Feind's kick made it 14-12 for the Terrors at halftime.

It was all Hietpas in the third segment. Moving from its own 46 on a splendid run by Jim Bertschy, it took Appleton only 10 plays, six by Hietpas, to score again. McKee did the honors on a 4-yard keeper.

Minutes later, Hietpas intercepted a wayward Cardinal aerial and returned to the middle field stripe. One first down and a roughing — the — passer infraction got it to the 20. Kitzinger darted 14 yards to the six before Hietpas broke center for the 6 — pointer. Feind's toe made it 28-12.

After recovering a Fond du Lac fumble on the enemy 25 early in the closing stanza, the Terrors moved to the 14 from where Feind got the first seven and Mark Tepper the final seven and another TD.

The last Appleton marker was set up by a short Fondy punt. A Terry Soley-to-Tepper completion earned to the five, from where Feind cracked over.

The winners completely dominated the statistics, gaining 420 yards to the Cardinals' 159. Hietpas was the big ground gainer, getting 136 yards in 23 carries. McKee added 78 yards in eight tries.

Dodgers Have Two Best Pitchers in Baseball, Says Casey

Warns That Koufax And Perranoski Will Trouble Yanks

BY CASEY STENGEL

Special to the Post-Crescent

The Dodgers have something the Yankees haven't got and that's why I'm trying to tell you not to sell this National League club short. They got the two best pitchers in baseball right now, and they are Koufax for starting and Perranoski for relieving.

The first game coming up next Wednesday is the biggest event in a World Series I have ever been around because of Koufax, the man who broke Hubbell's record with those 11 shutouts, and Ford, the man with a Series record nobody may ever touch. I talked about Ford yesterday.

They are meeting in the first game and I'd pay my way in to see it if I didn't have a free seat in the press box.

Koufax may not need the defense that the Yankees have and have about, because he's a strike-out pitcher, and that's what he does in a jam. He fans 'em half the time. It's shocking how much stuff he's got.

Alston could put shoemakers out there behind him when Koufax is right. He gets 10 men a game on strikeouts, and do you think the Yankees are gonna enjoy that in front of 72,000 people with their girls wearing their fancy furs?

Koufax used to throw balls over the backstop but he's got control now. He gave my Mets no hits in a game last year and no runs for a year and a half. He's gonna be tough, mighty tough — even of the Yankees play their right-handed line-up. Maris and Kubek may be the only lefty swingers he'll see, but don't you bet he can't get 'em all out. Don't tell me Ford, Hubbell, Spahn, Lopat and Arroyo couldn't pitch to the right handers.

You'll see excellent ability by three Dodger pitchers — Koufax, Drysdale and Perranoski, who could be the most valuable man in the National League because of all the games he won and saved, and he pitches three days in a row if you need him.

Perranoski comes in and pitches six goose eggs against St. Louis in that big series, and that's against the best hitting team in the league by at least 20 points. Perranoski is one of the unbelievably, if the National League is stronger in hitters, and we say it is.

Drysdale has the shingles and he isn't the pitcher he was last year, but don't let his record fool you. He's had bad luck and you can look up his earned run record, which would be even better with a good defensive club. And he's a good batter.

No Strals on Him

The only question is can he get out the left-handed batters? Well, he gave the Go-Go Chicago's only one run in the 1959 Series. And they didn't steal on him because they found even with his big motion which comes from around third base his pitches get to the catcher in a hurry.

And that other left-hander they got, Podres, you don't think Alston's gonna let him set on the bench all the Series, do you? You saw what he did to the Cardinals. He's a smart little devil. He can go six or seven and he says "We got the best man in the bullpen, bring him in, why should I be the hero?" But he was back in '55 against me.

They also got the fella who was their big relief man in 1959, Sherry — whose brother sometimes catches on the Mets — and Bob Miller, while he won only one for me's doing much better out there. He's a good nine inning pitcher. And I see they trusted the young left-hander, Richert, with a start against St. Louis, and he didn't lose, did he?

So they have the pitching and that man in the bullpen.

In another story I'll tell you about the rest of the team.

RECIPIENT OF ANOTHER FREE GIFT, one of thousands given to area families and single working girls by American Homemaker Products, Inc. Pictured above is Ronald Jens, new owner of the popular firm, presenting the key to a Lane Cedar Chest to Miss Gay Schellin, Rt. 1, New London, Wis., a recent winner. Full details on the contest are given in the story below.

As some wise and witty man once said, "Repetition is Reputation." And by this, or any other yardstick, American Homemaker Products, Inc. has an excellent reputation. A local firm, featuring nationally-recognized products, known for their reliability and quality, and under local ownership from factory representatives as control, is a combination that many companies envy. Repeat sales to dozens of members of the same family, as younger members, come of age and begin to fill their own hope chests, attest to the fact that this is a firm that has earned the trust of area citizens.

Mr. Ronald Jens, new owner of the firm, is pledged to continue the operation of the firm in the same proud tradition, a tradition that stretches far back into American history to 1874, when the first American Homemaker Products factory was built. The company always has and always will continue to "Deliver What it Promises", whether it be from factory showrooms like the one located in the Valley Fair Shopping Center or from homes that open their doors to them each year.

The company continues its usual program of rewarding the consumer for taking the twenty to thirty-five minutes it takes to listen to the product story on the amazingly fine cookware featured by the firm. A $5.95 gift, with no obligation, is being offered to those who are willing and interested in comparing the fine cookware. In addition, anyone taking the time to get acquainted with the firm's fine quality products is also eligible to enter the contest which awards the winner with a beautiful Lane Cedar Chest like the one pictured above.

Other fine products offered by the firm include lovely linens, tableware, Melmac dinnerware, cutlery, fine china, coffee makers, bakeware and giftware.

If you are desirous of obtaining beautiful products for your home or as gifts for others, American Homemaker Products, Inc., or one of its representatives, has just what you need. A call to Ronald Jens at RE 4-8784 or a visit to the firm's showrooms at the Valley Fair Shopping Center will be well worth your time.

A great deal of good fun thrown in for good measure for everyone participating.

Such items as baked goods, candy, plants, flowers, books, rummage and white elephant items, religious articles, jewelry, toys, dishes, needlework, novelties, and unusual refreshments are among the specialties that will be offered.

If you're a great "White Elephant" hunter, you will have a wonderful time this coming Saturday. One family's white elephant is often another's dream purchase, and there will be hundreds of items of this nature for you to look over. And best of all, you can do this perusing in a casual and relaxed manner, protected from the elements along the spacious weatherproof mall.

So, bring the entire family, including the man of the house, to the Good Neighbor Fair at the Valley Fair Shopping Center this Saturday. You'll find sought-after items for home, office, garden and workshop on display all day long. At the same time, you'll be assisting the many fine groups cooperating in this unusual semi-annual charity undertaking that has attracted nation-wide attention.

Winneconne Rallies for 26-13 Victory

Baitinger Scores Three Touchdowns Against Polar Bears

WINNECONNE—Halfback Dave Baitinger, who sat out the first quarter because of an ankle injury, scored three touchdowns, all on plays of 30 yards or more, to lead Winneconne to a 26-13 Little Nine Conference win over Hortonville here Friday afternoon. The Wolves scored the last four touchdowns after spotting their guests a 13-0 lead.

Hortonville made its first touchdown early in the second quarter after Bob Bellile recovered a fumble on the Winneconne 18. Six plays later quarterback Keith Schroeder hit halfback Rog Huebner with a pitchout and the latter easily scored from the three.

The Polar Bears upped their lead to 13-0 on a seven-yard pass play from Schroeder to Bellile with 1:35 left in the first half. Larry Schimke added the extra point.

Winneconne guard Ed Ochowicz carried the next kickoff from the Winneconne 25 to the Hortonville 34 and four plays later Mike Schroll passed to Baitinger for a 29-yard score. Dave Gilson kicked the extra point for a 13-0 half-time score.

Hortonville failed to move with the second half kickoff, was forced to boot and Ken Wiesner took the punt on his 35 and went 63 yards to tally behind a wave of blocking. The score remained tied when Gilson's kick was blocked.

Early in the fourth quarter, Schroll and Baitinger collaborated on a 64-yard touchdown pass play to give the Wolves a 19-13 lead and with 3:45 remaining the hosts iced the game on a 77-yard run by Baitinger on a reverse. Gilson's kick made it a final 26-13.

Americans Top Great Britain

U. S. Team Looks Ahead to India, Australia Matches

Bournemouth, England (AP)—The United States looked past Great Britain today to its expected challenge round struggle with Australia in December for the coveted Davis Cup, symbolic of world supremacy in amateur tennis.

The U.S. clinched its interzone victory over Britain Friday when Chuck McKinley, of San Antonio, Tex., and Dennis Ralston, of Bakersfield, Calif., beat Mike Sangster and Bobby Wilson in the doubles 6-4, 6-3, 9-7, 6-2. That gave the Americans a 3-0 lead in the best-of-5 match and made the last two singles today meaningless.

McKinley faces Billy Knight and Frank Froehling of Miami, Fla. meets Sangster in the windup of the three-day competition. McKinley, the Wimbledon champion, whipped Sangster and Froehling defeated Knight in the opening singles Thursday.

McKinley's coolness stood out in the doubles. Both sides were jittery at times, but the U.S. won because McKinley and Ralston paced themselves better and were more consistent in their volleying.

Only India now stands between the U.S. and the challenge round match with defending Australia. The India match is scheduled for Bombay next month and the Americans are favored to win handily.

Colts Give Nat Craddock His Chance

BALTIMORE (AP) — Near-sighted Nat Craddock couldn't see anything except playing for a National Football League team. After looking at or being looked at by five other pro teams in two countries, he has his chance with the Baltimore Colts.

When the Colts activated the fullback Thursday for Sunday's game at Green Bay, he must have been the best known unsigned player around.

The Colts cut him and he went to Ottawa and Montreal in the Canadian League. Next he showed up in the training camp of the Boston Patriots of the American Football League.

Coach Webb Ewbank of the New York Jets in the same league yelled foul. He said he had first choice of any players cut by the Giants and the league office upheld him.

However, the Colts talked Craddock into joining their band squad — an unofficial group of players who practice regularly without being on the roster.

New Facets on Kitchen Faucets

Bowing to popular demand, Moen Faucet has just introduced two new spray models to their line of single handle mixing faucets for kitchen sinks. Now, homeowners have their choice of modern kitchen faucets with or without sprays, depending upon their needs.

Incorporating the same Dialac construction found in all Moen faucets, these new spray models are offered in two designs. Both units operate on the simple principle of raising and lowering the handle or knob for water volume control and turning from left to right for hot, cold or any water mixture in between. The easy grip spray nozzles feature a quick act-up thumb control that immediately diverts water from the spout for quick rinsing of dishes, vegetables, etc. The spray face delivers the same volume of water at the same temperature selected when the faucet is turned on. There is never any fiddling with separate handles because one handle does the work of two.

These new Moen spray models for kitchens, and Moen faucets for

K-C Official Calls For Local Water Pollution Control

Richard Billings Says State Problems Are Dissimilar

NEENAH — Water pollution contamination problems and their solutions are quite dissimilar across the country, according to Richard M. Billings, assistant to the vice president of research and development, Kimberly - Clark Corp. Consequently they should be handled by local authorities, who are better equipped and informed to effect action.

Speaking before the luncheon of the Neenah Rotary International at the Valley Inn this week, Billings attacked two bills presently before the congress which generally intend to give control over interstate waterway pollution and contamination to federal authorities.

He presented part of his talk from his testimony before the subcommittee on air and water pollution of the Senate public works committee, given June 25.

Two Bills
"Local knowledge of local problems leads to local solution," Billings said.

Both bills — one introduced in the House by Rep. John A. Blatnik (Dem-Minn.) and one in the Senate by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie (Dem. Maine) — essentially propose that the federal government arbitrarily establish test standards for water pollution and contamination for the whole country, according to Billings.

These standards are to be strictly enforced on all interstate waterways and their affluents, he said.

Need for Control
This would give the federal government entire authority and stop the states from working with pollution and contamination problems as they are now doing, Billings said.

While not denying a need for some governmental control in water sanitation problems, Billings contended that its position should be that of an overseer and coordinator and not the only and last word.

"Federal action should always be in the direction of increasing this cooperation (between state, local, industrial and interstate groups) and encouraging further individual action by others," he said.

"Because there is no solution that will fit all plants, nor one set of standards that will fit all streams," Billings said he felt federal standards would be impractical.

Disposal Problems
He cited two K-C mills in Wisconsin, one on the Fox River and

Menasha High Sophomores Win First Place in Homecoming Test

'Elephant Joke' Line Used to Advantage; Juniors Use Bluejay Angle for Second

MENASHA — The "elephant" jokes—heard everywhere but particularly among the teen-age set—invaded the Menasha High School homecoming parade Friday night and helped the sophomore class come off with the first place award.

Placards asked the question, "why did the elephant jump out of the tree?" Another placard supplied the answer: "To give the Ghosts de-feet!" The float was a huge elephant which curled its trunk up and uncurlred it, at the same time raising a massive front leg to crush an orange and black clad football player.

The junior class entry of a Bluejay cook, wearing a chef's hat, and toasting a Ghost marshmallow over a campfire, proclaimed "we'll roast the Ghosts from the head to defeat!" Lights made the Bluejay's eyes twinkle and flames of the campfire sparkle.

Generator Trouble
The seniors, plagued by generator trouble along the parade route, didn't get their float light-

one on the Menominee River, as examples of the impracticality of set standards.

Both mills have the same disposal problem of higher industrial waste load than the rivers at low flow can readily handle and still maintain satisfactory oxygen levels, he said. However, both mills are solving the problem in different ways because of their local needs and geographical location, he pointed out.

Billings' contention is that unless industry injects or disposes harmful chemicals into the streams, they are not contaminating the water, but may be polluting it. "Industry rarely contaminates water," he said.

"Contamination usually comes from improper treatment of sanitation waste," he said "Pollution may come from both industry and sanitary sewage treatment."

Kiln Donated To St. John By Key Club

LITTLE CHUTE — A new kiln for baking clay models in art classes at St. John High School was donated to the school this week by the high school Key Club.

Club members worked more than a year in an effort to raise the $330 needed to purchase the equipment.

Fund raising projects included car washes, selling first aid kits, operating concession stands at grade school basketball games, cooperating in the Kiwanis Club broom sale and sponsoring a movie at the local theater.

The art room was not equipped with a kiln previously and the new addition will make it possible for the instructor to expand art instruction.

Highway Accident Trial Is Recessed

Suit Over 1961 Crash Taking 4 Lives Will Resume Monday

CHILTON — A marathon trial in circuit court to determine damages resulting from the tragic 1961 highway crash that took the lives of four Sherwood area teenagers has been adjourned for the weekend. It will reconvene Monday with Judge Arnold J. Cane presiding.

The crash from which the complex legal action stemmed occurred Aug. 17, 1961, on State 55 about three miles south of Kaukauna. Gerald Halbach, Sherwood, and the three passengers in the car he was driving were killed. Other victims were James Wagner and Shirley Kirvan, both of route 1, Menasha, and Gary St. Louis, Sherwood. All were in their late teens.

$110,500 sought
When the court action got underway Monday there were four separate suits seeking damages totaling $110,500. One was settled and the remaining three were incorporated for trial purposes. Settled before it went to the jury was a suit brought against Halbach's insurance carrier, Dairyland Mutual Insurance Co., and the Economy Fire and Casualty Co., insurer of the car driven by

Lutheran School Expansion May be Completed in 1964

New Wing Would Increase Capacity to 500 Students

A $280,000 addition to Fox Valley Lutheran High School, planned for completion by fall of 1964, has been approved by the school's general board. The proposed addition will increase the capacity of the school to 500 students.

A critical shortage of space resulted when more than 380 students enrolled this year in a building designed for 275. The enrollment is expected to pass 400 students next fall.

Included in the addition will be classrooms, laboratories, rooms for the band and choir. Raymond N. LeVee and Associates, Appleton architects who designed the original building, are working on plans for the addition.

Athletic Field
A new athletic field now under construction will be finished in the spring of 1964. It will cost an estimated $10,000, and includes a football field, track and physical education area.

The general board adopted a budget of $144,173 for 1964 at its meeting Wednesday.

Five men were elected to three-year terms on the 15-member governing board of regents. They are the Rev. Arnold Meyer, pastor of St. John Lutheran Church, Center; William Kuepher, a teacher at the school and member of Martin Luther Church, Neenah; Carl Meitner of St. Matthew Evangelical Lutheran Church, Appleton; Lloyd Miller of Mt. Olive Lutheran Church, Appleton, and Harland Schroeder of Immanuel Lutheran Church, Greenville.

The board of regents meets every month. The general board, made up of representatives of the 17 member congregations of the Fox Valley Lutheran High School Federation, meets four times a year. The general board has about 85 members.

10th Year
Fox Valley Lutheran High School is in its 10th year. The school started in 1953 with eight students. Classes were conducted in the old Jefferson School, rented from the city of Appleton for $1 per year. The present building was dedicated in 1956 with a student body of 119.

The Federation started a $425,000 debt retirement and expansion fund drive in 1961.

Renting space outside the school building was considered to relieve the crowding this fall, but the idea was dropped because of scheduling and transportation problems. The board hopes to have the new wing completed in time for the 1964-65 school year.

Seek 5 Awards
Passengers in the car driven by Vande Hey, and their relatives, are seeking five separate damage awards. Mrs. Henry Vande Hey, mother of the driver, is suing for $10,000 for injuries she suffered. Her husband, not a passenger, is seeking $3,000 for medical expenses incurred by his wife.

The driver, Virgil, is asking $5,000 damages for injuries while his nephew, Floyd Eisenmann, route 2, Greenleaf, a passenger, is seeking $15,000. The youth's mother, Mrs. Vivian Eisenmann, is asking an additional $2,500 for medical expenses and loss of services. She was not a passenger.

The case ranks as one of the most involved legal actions ever to be heard in circuit court here, Judge Cane expects the trial to continue several more days.

Gasoline Price War Enters Third Week

MENASHA — The gasoline price war in the Twin Cities entered its third week today and began to look less like a war and more like a stalemate.

Dealers apparently have reached the limit to which they will slash prices.

Prices continued to hang at the marks set two weeks ago after the war began. Prices for cut-rate gasolines dropped to 25.9 cents and premium to 27.9—and stayed there.

Although no one is dropping prices now, no one is raising them, much to the satisfaction of motorists who are having to dig less into the pocket for gasoline money.

Gasoline dealers say they can see no early end to the price war, which apparently found its way into the Twin Cities from Appleton, where a price war has raged for most of the summer.

Nine Xavier Students Go To Workshops

Nine Xavier High School students will attend the workshop of the Wisconsin Association of Student Councils in Sheboygan Oct. 11 and 12.

Barbara Bedford, who is vice president of the state organization, will attend as a representative of the state group. Representing Xavier will be Robert DeBruin, Janine Arnoldussen, Diane Kamys, Patricia Moriarty, Dennis O'Connell, Barbara Utshig, William Whitehead and a sophomore boy yet to be chosen.

At the workshop, Miss Bedford will conduct the sessions dealing with the election of new officers. Brother Ambrose and Sister M. Rose Catherine are student council moderators.

The boys' student council is working on the revision of its constitution to make it workable with the new organization of advisories (homerooms) caused by Xavier's new schedule.

Both student councils are making preparations for the school's second homecoming on Oct. 19. Plans are being made for a pep rally, parade and dance. Robert DeBruin is chairman of homecoming activities.

Equipment Damaged

OSHKOSH — The sheriff's office received a complaint Friday from R. J. Schafer and Sons Well Drilling Co. of Fremont that youngsters had been damaging their equipment while drilling a well for a new home on Lakeshore Drive in the town of Menasha.

Philosophic Lecture Series At Oshkosh

Moral Theology of St. Thomas Aquinas Will be Subject

The first of a series of 12 lectures on the philosophy of St. Thomas Aquinas will be presented Sunday in the Mercy Hospital School of Nursing auditorium, Oshkosh, by the Oshkosh-Appleton chapter of the Thomist Association.

The subject of the association's lecture series for the 1963-1964 season is "Theology of Human Happiness." The series will begin on the moral theology of St. Thomas Aquinas. Later lectures will take up the problem of human actions and personality.

The Rev. Matthew D. Hynous, O.P., from the Dominican House of Studies, River Forest, Ill., is the lecturer. Father Hynous was born in Chicago in 1932. He entered the Dominican Order in 1955 and studied philosophy at River Forest, where he obtained a licentiate in philosophy. He studied theology at St. Rose Priory in Dugue, Iowa, where he was ordained to the priesthood in 1959.

For the past three years, Father Hynous has been an instructor at Dominican College, Racine. He lectures in philosophy, theology and Sacred Scripture, in addition to serving as college chaplain.

Mass will be offered at 8:15 a.m. Sunday in the Mercy Hospital chapel, followed by breakfast in the cafeteria. The lecture and discussion will be held from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m.

Guests may attend the first two lectures without payment of the usual fee. The series is open to all interested persons.

Winnebago Sheriff Requests Pay Hikes for Parole Officer, Radio Dispatchers in 1964

OSHKOSH — Salary increases for the parole officer and radio dispatchers and clothing allowances for the county police are among the recommendations included in the $267,055 budget for 1964 drawn up Friday by the sheriff and coroner's committee.

The budget includes $143,370 for the county traffic police, $80,595 for the sheriff's department, $6,660 for the jail operation, $31,730 for the radio section and $4,700 for the coroner's work.

The sheriff and coroner's committee is recommending to the personnel committee that the lieutenant - parole officer be raised $30 a month to a yearly salary of $6,000. This would make his salary equal to that of the lieutenant-investigator.

Same Salary
It is also recommending that the radio dispatchers be placed in the same salary schedule as the county traffic police so that they can be used as traffic police on occasion.

The clothing allowance would give county traffic police and radio dispatchers up to $100 a year for clothing on authorization by the chief deputy.

Replacement of a 1962 model squad car with a 1964 model at a net cost of $1,950 was approved. The committee also voted to take bids for two to five 1964 cars to replace some of the 1962 cars with high mileage.

The budget represents increases of $30,315 over those for this year but actual costs this year will be near the 1964 anticipated expenses.

Major Increase
One of the major increases is in the sheriff's budget where the number of prisoners housed in the jail this year has exceeded those in previous years, resulting in a higher meals cost. This year's actual costs for the sheriff's department is estimated at $94,735. The amount budgeted was $69,325.

Board of prisoners has been raised $12,000 to $36,000 while the sheriff's travel amount was cut $1,000 to $3,000. Other cuts in the 1964 budget were $200 in ambulance services, $200 in lake rescue costs and $500 in assistance fees. Increases other than salaries were $200 for officers' travel, $200 for telephone and office costs and $100 for attendance convention. The latter was not in the 1963 budget.

The jail budget will include raising the salaries of the two night jailers from $1 to $1.25 per hour, resulting in a $460 boost for the expense. $300 more for bedding and clothing, $300 more for hospital service and $200 more for kitchen and laundry supplies and expenses. The increased number of prisoners has caused some of the budget increases.

New Expenses
The new expense of $2,400 for clothing allowance is one of the major increases for the traffic police budget. Gasoline costs were increased another $1,000 and car repairs and services are up $2,000. The major item in this budget is $109,980 for salaries. Other major expenses are $12,000 for squad car gasoline, $10,000 for squad car replacement and $4,500 for repairs and service.

Moving up the four radio dispatchers to the same salary schedule as the county traffic police adds $1,920 to that department's budget. It will total $31,830. The parttime help budget was cut $300 and the radio parts costs was cut $200. The only other increase was $50 in telephone costs.

The coroner's budget of $4,700 represents only an increase of $25.

Packer Star Involved In Rail, Auto Crash

NEENAH — A car driven by William Max Mc Gee, 31, Fort Worth, Tex., Packer football player, was struck by a Soo Line motorized handcar at the N. Lake Street crossing of the Soo Line at 8:10 p.m. Friday.

Police said Mc Gee was traveling south on Lake Street. The handcar, operated by Norman Nelson, 34, of Sheldon, east on the tracks. The handcar had no lights and the railroad warning signals were not working, according to the report. Both vehicles were damaged.

Youth Loses Teeth In Auto Accident

LITTLE CHUTE — One person was injured early Saturday when a car driven by Alvin E. Baker Jr., 20, Kaukauna, struck a tree in the 300 block of Filmore Street.

Myron Schuette, 18, of 800 W. 10th St., Kaukauna, a passenger, had some front teeth broken off.

Baker told police a car approaching from the south forced him off the road, resulting in the crash at 3:30 a.m.

Store Going Up at Menasha

Fate Dealt Hard Blows To Commercial Project

MENASHA — A concrete block foundation for construction of a Super Valu super market in the area of Second, Third and Milwaukee streets rises on a site where workmen, real estate developers and residents have experienced more headaches than progress in development of the area into a commercial district.

Although construction of the super market has moved swiftly, fate has dealt some blows. For example:
—A bitter fight broke out among residents when the land was sought rezoned from residential to commercial.

—After the land was rezoned, several residents moved from their homes only to find land options were dropped by the original dealer.

—New options were obtained, but residents may have suffered by being offered a lower than original price. This is unconfirmed.

—When demolition work finally got underway on six houses for construction of the supermarket and service station, construction crews found that salvagable facilities and fixtures of the homes had been removed by parties unknown and in some cases even parts of the houses themselves missing.

—When the houses were finally demolished the debris was dumped into the Badger Highway Stone quarry where it was to be burned. The resulting blaze routed two families from their homes and left a pall of smoke over the area for several days and kept firemen busy for 48 hours.
